SNOW STORM STOPS SURVEY PARTY WHEN WITHIN TWO THOUSAND FEET OF MOUNT SAINT ELIAS SUMMIT

Attempt to Locate Four Miles of Boundary Line Practically Attained by Canadian and American Joint Expedition
Which Ascended Sixteen Thousand Feet

Seattle, Sept. 6.—After attaining an elevation of 16,000 feet in an effort to reach the summit of Mount St. Elias, members of the Alaska boundary survey were forced to give up the attempt when they were caught in a heavy snowstorm. The party was in charge of A. C. Baldwin, who is expected to return to this city next week. D. J. Fraser, who was one of the two men representing the Canadian government, was in Seattle yesterday on his way to Ottawa.

The trip to the summit of the mountain, 18,000 feet high, was planned to conclude the summer's work in that district, and but for the inopportune storm would have been successful, Mr. Fraser thinks. The summit has been reached only once, when the expedition of the Duke d'Abruzzi succeeded in making it.

Mr. Fraser believes that aside from the Duke's party no one has ever before attained as great an elevation as did the survey party. Several attempts have been made to ascend the mountain by way of the Malaspina glacier, but as far as known no one has been successful. The present trip was by way of the Logan glacier.

Its object was the location of a permanent boundary line for a distance of four miles, or from the peak to the first meridian, which is the north and south line between Alaska and the Yukon Territory. The line from St. Elias down the coast, separating the "panhandle" from Canada, and that north along the meridian is fairly well marked, but there has never been a thorough understanding of this short stretch.

It was for the purpose of establishing this boundary and learning the topography of this portion of the mountain that the ascent was undertaken. It was planned to go farther up, but after reaching an elevation of 16,000 feet the party was forced to return to a lower level, and eventually the trip was abandoned. The object has practically been attained, however, and it is not likely that another ascent will be attempted.

WAIT WILLINGNESS TO RECEIVE INCLAN

Gamboa Disclaims Huerta's Intention Not to Become Presidential Candidate

Washington, D. C., Sept. 6.—The declaration by Federico Gamboa, Mexican foreign minister, that Manuel Zamacoena, Inclan, is coming to the United States in an unofficial capacity, is interpreted by officials here as meaning that the latter will not be invested with power to represent the Huerta government until the United States indicates its willingness to receive him.

The view prevails that to receive Inclan would not conflict with negotiations being conducted by John Lind, President Wilson's personal envoy in Mexico. Administration officials were inclined to the opinion that if Inclan were received, the parties here would supplement those carried on by Mr. Lind.

Gamboa's disclaimer that verbal assurances had been given to Charge O'Shaughnessy that Huerta would not be a candidate caused no surprise here. It is believed the Mexican officials do not deem it the proper time to make a public announcement of Huerta's withdrawal, though the government in all its negotiations is taking that for granted.

MOSQUITOES CAUSE SHORTAGE OF MILK

Process Essential to Full Pail Disturbed by Pest in Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 6.—Up to the end of the first week in September no frost has been reported in central or southern Manitoba, and probably the records of a generation cannot parallel this. A curious resulting phenomenon is the clouds of insect life which have bred unchecked, and this especially applies to mosquitoes, that noisy pest whose brief season of destruction generally vanes with July, disappearing with the first frosts in mid-August, but now they are as bad as on a long June evening.

Dairymen complain that their milk output is falling off very appreciably, the herds being too distracted to chew the cud complacently, a process essential to the full pail. Mosquitoes have invaded downtown office buildings, and every warm day brings another generation into play. With the crop safe a touch of frost will not be welcome.

COMMITTED SUICIDE IN CONDITION OF DELIRIUM

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Sept. 6.—While in a delirious condition W. J. Boyce, of Parkhill, Ont., a man about 55, and apparently well-to-do, committed suicide by strangulation at 9 o'clock last night. He had arrived here Friday morning. In the afternoon he told the hotelkeeper to put on an extra guard as "they were after him." He made a tourniquet of his suspenders. His tickets showed he was on his way to Vancouver. He carried considerable money, and had not been drinking.

HOT SPRINGS UNDER MILITARY CONTROL

First Steps Towards Rehabilitation Commenced After Disastrous Fire

TWENTY-FIVE HUNDRED
ARE MADE HOMELESS

Water Famine in Disrupted Arkansas City Is Not Anticipated

AFTERNOON PAPERS
UNABLE TO PUBLISH

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 6.—Stunned by the extent of the damage wrought by last night's fire, which swept more than fifty city blocks here with an estimated loss of $10,000,000, the people of Hot Springs to-day took first steps toward rehabilitation. Mayor McClelland accepted Governor Hays' offer of two companies of state militia and ordered a mass meeting of citizens for later in the day, when it will be decided whether the city will call on outside cities for help.

It is estimated about 2,500 persons were made homeless by the fire. The majority of these are being temporarily camped in the vicinity of the Oak Lawn racetrack and state fairgrounds. Grand avenue, leading from the burned area to the fairgrounds to-day presented a picturesque sight. Hundreds of families with what little they saved from the ruins were gathered along the roadway, gradually working their way to the campgrounds. The militia will add these people and guard the devastated district.

There is no danger of a water famine, according to the authorities. Even if the supply were cut off there are numerous cold springs throughout the city furnishing sufficient water for all purposes. The Sentinel-Record, the morning newspaper here, barely escaped destruction by the fire last night and did not issue its regular edition. The New Era and Daily News, the afternoon papers, are without power and unable to publish.

Under orders of Mayor McClelland all saloons were closed and so far there has been no disorder. Two hundred and fifty men sworn in as special police, at a mass meeting held last night while the fire was at its height, trooped the fire-swept area this morning.

Definite figures as to the monetary loss will not be possible until late to-day.

Struck on Head With Hammer by Workman C. H. Pettyplace in Serious Condition.

Seattle, Sept. 6.—Struck on the head with a hammer by a fellow workman, his skull so badly fractured that he may not live, C. H. Pettyplace, a drayman, remained at work yesterday until forcibly taken to the city hospital.

Pettyplace is employed by the Seattle Dray & Storage Company and was engaged in unloading goods at Pier 7. He remonstrated with his employer because the latter broke service while unloading them. The assistant struck Pettyplace on the head with a hammer and fled. His identity is not known to the police.

Struggling to his feet after a period of unconsciousness, Pettyplace resumed his labors. Blood was pouring from his nostrils. Passersby admonished him to visit a doctor, but he refused. A man who perceived the seriousness of Pettyplace's condition notified the police and the injured man was taken to the city hospital.

COLLECTED LARGE SUMS FROM CHAIN OF BANKS

James Ray, Typical Rancher in Appearance Presents Drafts and Gets $17,700.

Woodstock, Ont., Sept. 6.—Woodstock, Ingersoll and Brantford fell victims to James Ray along with other towns. It has now been known that on Tuesday last the managers of the Imperial Bank branches at these places received letters by mail purporting to be from the manager of the Union Bank at Kindersley, Sask., stating that a client, Jas. Ray, was coming east to buy cattle and would present letters of introduction and a demand draft for between two and three thousand dollars which would be all right. The next day Ray landed here, presented his credentials and got $2,000. He then went to Ingersoll and got a similar amount, and then to Brantford. He is said to be a typical western rancher in appearance. At Galt he got $2,500, at Guelph $2,700, at Berlin $2,500, and at Lindsay $2,500. His total is about $17,700 as far as known.

Eight Hundred Stampede

From Cordova

SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD BOY
ARRIVES WITH $2.50

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Expressing the opinion that the Shushanna diggings have been overrated and basing this view on interviews obtained with prospectors on the trail, F. M. Badham reached Vancouver after a summer's work on the Alaska boundary survey, as a member of the Canadian party. The men came south to Seattle on the steamer Admiral Sampson, and T. O. Dennis, who was in charge, went on to Ottawa. Mr. Badham, who is a resident of Vancouver, got in yesterday.

"We were on a part of the Shushanna trail," he said. "From Nizina river to McCarthy we followed the route used by the stampede and we met several parties going in. They were mostly Chechakos and had very vague ideas as to what was before them. As to the diggings, the only first-hand information we obtained was from two old-time prospectors whom we met at Chititu creek. They informed us that they had panned all over the ground. They also panned on James' discovery claim and two claims above and one below. They got good colors, but apart from these indications, struck nothing, and it is significant that these experienced prospectors did not stake anything."

Dawson, Y. T., Sept. 6.—Henry and Frank Hanson have arrived from the Shushanna, via Donjek, bringing letters dated August 22, one from Billy McLennan, who prospected the country before the strike and found traces of gold a few years ago, but could not get grubstaked to return until the James discovery. Letters and arrivals at Dawson agree that two or three creeks show pay, and others have yet to be prospected. Considerable prospecting is being done on the creeks and in the deep canyons at many places, especially at Donjek. Considerable claim-jumping is reported, but it is confined to ground which the men contend was taken by men who already had staked the full allowance. Some gunplay resulted, but no shooting.

The Fairbanks crowd begins to arrive in good numbers. One 16-year-old boy arrived with only $2.50. He hiked back quietly.

There are 800 stampede on the ground, the letters state, from Cordova. A launch which left Donjek on the third reports the steamers Vidette and Donjek. They were unloaded onto launches to take the freight the rest of the way. The steamer Nasuttin, thirty miles below, is continuing slowly. Stampede continue to leave here, many taking poiling boats from the mouth of the White river. Ten or fifteen go daily. Arrangements are being made to freight horse teams from the mouth of the White to the Chisana as soon as the river freezes in November.

MORAL REFORM COUNCIL PUTS BLAME ON BOWSER

Authorities Shamelessly Tolerate Vice in British Columbia Says
the Report.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—"With a few exceptions, the authorities generally in British Columbia openly and shamelessly tolerate criminal vice."

This statement was made in the report of the executive committee to the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada at the meeting in St. George's hall to-day. It was part of a most vigorous denunciation of the conditions that are alleged to exist in the Pacific coast province and for which the executive claimed that Attorney-General Bowser was practically responsible insofar as he had the power to appoint two or three members of every board of police commissioners in the province.

RAILROAD BUYS MILLS

South Bend, Wash., Sept. 6.—The Milwaukee railroad closed a deal late yesterday whereby it takes over all the property of the South Bend Mills and Timber company at the south end of town. The consideration was $500,000 and it is rumored that they intend to bridge the river at the mill site, going up to Chehalis along the north side of the river.

BAIL FOR THAW NEXT MOVE BAND PLAYS AT COATICOOK

Immigration Official Sure of Deportation While La Flamme Positive in Opposite Opinion; Case Now Well Launched
on Long Legal Journey to Privy Council

Montreal, Sept. 6.—"Foreign lawyers, foreign sheriffs and foreign bailiffs have hurt the dignity of the British courts of law in the Thaw case," said Justice Gervais, one of the judges who issued yesterday the writ of habeas corpus and order prohibiting the immigration authorities from deporting Harry K. Thaw. "British sovereignty is quite capable of taking care of any person who appeals to our sense of justice," continued his lordship. "It is not necessary for any lawyer, sheriff, bailiff or any other foreign person to intervene in such a matter."

"We are quite capable of looking after any stranger that is within our midst. Mr. Thaw will appear before the full bench of the court of appeals and his case will be thrashed out there, according to its merits."

Montreal, Sept. 6.—An application for bail will be the next move by the lawyers for Harry K. Thaw, who yesterday succeeded in securing from Justices Gervais and Gervais a writ of habeas corpus returnable in Montreal September 15, and an order preventing the immigration officials from deporting Thaw.

In legal circles here the belief is held that the Thaw case is now safely launched on its long trip to the privy council.

E. Blake Robertson, assistant superintendent of the Dominion immigration department, who passed through Montreal on his way home to Ottawa, said: "Thaw will be deported, be sure of that."

Pressed for a statement, Mr. La Flamme of the Thaw counsel, said: "We liked Jerome and there will be no deportation. That's enough."

The legal contingent from Montreal handling Thaw's case, accompanied by "Gentleman Roger" Thompson, the chauffeur who drove the rescue car from Matteawan, returned on a special train this morning. While the Thaw lawyers declined to commit themselves, it is thought that they will appear in the court of King's bench either to-day or Monday and make their appeal for bail.

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 6.—Harry K. Thaw's lawyers, having thrown a wrench into the machinery to deport him, and William Travers Jerome having motored quietly away to Norton's Mills, Vt., after his arrest yesterday and released on $500 bail on a charge of gambling, Coaticook resumed its normal state to-day. Thaw remained, deserted by counsel, in the Coaticook jail.

JEROME DENOUNCED BY MAGISTRATE IN COATICOOK COURT FOR HIS ABSENCE

Suburban Town Resents New York Lawyer Going There and Playing Card Games Before Its Children Says
Mr. McKee

Coaticook, Que., Sept. 6.—William Travers Jerome, arrested in Coaticook yesterday on a charge of gambling, was bitterly denounced by Justice of the Peace James McKee in his courtroom to-day.

The grey-bearded magistrate was very indignant when Jerome's counsel announced that the New York lawyer would be present to-day, and asked an adjournment of the hearing of his gambling case.

"I want to say," said Mr. McKee, banging the table with his fist, "that we intend to prosecute Mr. Jerome to the full extent of the law. He can't come here and play his card games before our children. This may be a suburban town, but we intend to enforce our laws. Our relations with the American bar are cordial, but justice must be meted out in this case."

The court then suggested that Jerome's bail be forfeited.

"That would only hit two of our citizens who went on it," said Mr. Hanson, the prosecutor. The justice said he would let the bail stand and put the case over until September 11.

There was a crowd of about sixty persons in the courtroom who stamped their feet and applauded vociferously when the justice denounced Jerome.

Jerome meantime was at Norton's Mills, Vt., where he went in an automobile after being admitted to bail. He was considering the next move to be made in the Thaw case and for this reason did not deem it best to return to Coaticook, where feeling against him has run high.

Norton's Mills, Vt., Sept. 6.—William Travers Jerome was still here this morning and announced that he would not leave until afternoon.

"Then," he said, "I don't know which way I shall go."

WASHINGTON DEMANDS NEW EXPOSITION SITE

Track Reserved Unsuitable; Demand for Better Location and More Space Made.

Seattle, Sept. 6.—The Post-Intelligencer to-day says:—

"That the building site reserved for Washington at the Panama-Pacific exposition is too small and that it will be impossible to make a dignified display of the products of this state, is the contention of the Washington State exposition commission."

The exposition directors at San Francisco have been notified that Washington will not attempt to erect a building on the tract reserved, and if this state is to participate in the big fair it must have more space.

The exposition directors offered another site in an obscure part of the grounds, which was refused. The situation at present is that the exposition men have not offered another site and that the Washington commission has refused to go ahead."

ASSASSINS' WOUND FATAL TO OFFICIAL

Mortario Abe Believed to Have Been Mistaken for Dr. Sun
Yat Sen

JAPANESE CLAMOR FOR ACTION AGAINST CHINA

Tokio Student Class Intensely Excited Because of Massacres at Nanking

ONE HUNDRED ARE SENT TO MURDER FUGITIVES

Tokio, Sept. 6.—Mortario Abe, director of the political bureau of the Japanese foreign office, died to-day the victim of unknown assassins. His assailants, who are believed to have been students, lay in wait for him in front of his house Thursday evening while he was at the railway station to meet H. Ijima, minister to China, who had just been recalled from Peking. Director Abe was attacked by two young men who ran out of an alley toward him. One seized him by the shoulders while the other plunged a short sword into his abdomen twice. The assassins escaped in the darkness.

It was thought at first that the director's wounds would not prove fatal, for they were promptly dressed after passing by had carried him to his home. Excitement is intense here following the reports of the massacre of Japanese and the insult to the Japanese flag at Nanking, and there is much irresponsible clamor for drastic action against China, similar to the recent clamor against America. The motive in the assassination of Director Abe may have originated in resentment of the policy of the foreign office in either or both of these matters. The foreign office officials in both cases have steadily adhered to a policy of calmness.

The student element, at whose door the assassination is laid, has been increasingly active in politics. Recently three students tried to see Baron Makino, minister of foreign relations, and submit to him a solution of the California land question. The sensational press has been attacking the foreign office on both the California and Chinese policies.

Another theory is that Director Abe was mistaken by his assailants for Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the Chinese revolutionary leader, whom he closely resembled. It was reported a month ago, soon after Dr. Sun Yat Sen's flight from China, that 100 assassins had been sent by the Chinese government to kill Dr. Sun, General Huang Sing and other Chinese revolutionary fugitives.

According to the Tai Hui Yo news agency, the conspirators were also to kill Premier Yamamoto and the minister of foreign affairs, Baron Makino. The assassination of Director Abe is generally regarded as a political crime. He is believed to have been an indirect victim of the sensational Japanese press which recently attacked him and other foreign office officials, calling them national traitors who must be removed.

At a luncheon yesterday of the same group of agitators who formally organized mass meetings attacking America, some of the speakers denounced Abe for misguiding Japanese policy in China.

Director Abe discussed the political situation with the correspondent of the Associated Press only three hours before the murder. He carefully went over the recent developments in Southern China and characterized as ridiculous the reports that Japan intended immediately to occupy the Chinese city of Nanking. He bitterly assailed the inaccuracy and exaggerations of the Japanese press relative to both the California and the Chinese questions, and said the newspapers were inspired with the idea of embarrassing and overthrowing the Japanese ministry.

Some shopkeepers who saw the assassins strike Director Abe pursued them, but without success. They said that Abe walked heroically to the doorstep of his residence, where he collapsed in the arms of his son. The surgeons called hoped to save the patient by an operation, but the wounds were too serious and he died as a result of hemorrhage.

HAS SIXTEEN HUNDRED THIRTY POUND SALMON

Chinook, Wash., Sept. 6.—The Chinook river hatchery superintendent, Julius Jensen reports that he has obtained from the fish traps 1600 Chinook salmon, selected fish that will not weigh less than thirty pounds each. From these he expects to turn out at the end of the season 5,000,000 fry, which is about the capacity of the hatchery. A great many more seeds could have been obtained with ease, as the fishing season had no sooner closed than a run of salmon was on and all the traps, spillies and pots were heavily-laden every day after August 25.

GAZETTE TRAVELLER ON PACIFIC COAST

Rupert Brooke Obtains Eastern View of British Columbia on Oriental Menace

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Rupert Brooke, of the London Westminster Gazette, who is writing a number of special articles on Canada and the States for that paper, arrived in Vancouver yesterday after spending a couple of months in the East, on the Prairies and among the Rockies. He will spend several days in Vancouver and district in order to make a thorough study of conditions here. He will then go on to Victoria and South Sea Islands and return to the Old Country by way of the States.

The position of British Columbia on the Oriental question is little understood in Eastern Canada or in the Old Country, says Mr. Brooke, and he says the impression is generally that the feeling against the Orientals here is no longer economic, but racial, and as such is not looked on with approval.

Mr. Brooke's articles on Western Canada appear in the weekly edition of the Westminster Gazette, which takes a high place among the Old Country weeklies for its literary merit and value.

TWO THOUSAND ARE HOMELESS BY FIRE

Monetary Loss at Hot Springs District Ten Million Dollars in Afternoon

Hot Springs, Ark., Sept. 6.—Fire which started in a negro cabin yesterday afternoon at the foot of West Mountain, the southern extremity of Hot Springs, reduced to smouldering mass of wreckage an area more than a mile in length and from seven to ten blocks wide in the eastern section of the city. The monetary loss is roughly estimated at $10,000,000.

In the path of the flames were many houses, hotels, a number of pretentious residences and public buildings, which are in ashes. It is estimated that 2,000 persons are homeless. So far as can be ascertained there were no fatalities and few persons suffered minor injuries.

The fire originated within several blocks of the United States army and navy hospital, and took a south-eastern course. Driven by a high wind, the fire spread rapidly. Within fifteen minutes it was apparent that the fire-fighting force of Hot Springs was inadequate, and an appeal was made to Little Rock for aid. Apparatus and men were sent, but the fire was then beyond control. Dynamite was reported to be of no avail, but this also failed to check the progress of the flames.

The burned district, for some distance, skirts the business section and several times the shifting winds headed the fire for the principal business section, but each time the free use of explosives and an opportune change in the wind saved it.

Before midnight the task of checking the flames was abandoned and the fire-fighting force turned attention toward keeping the fire away from the centre of the city. In this they were successful.

The city at midnight was in darkness excepting from the glow of the dying fire, which cast shades over a scene of desolation.

Among the buildings destroyed were the city's light, water and power plants, the county court house, the Park, Princess and Moody hotels, the city high school, the Union Mountain station and a hundred small business buildings and residences, including some of the best in the city.

Firemen many times endeavored to destroy buildings yet untouched, but the flames swept over the partially wrecked buildings and broke out into other places.

Early in the night the gale reached a velocity of 40 miles an hour, and three times the shifting wind currents changed the course of the fire. Twice a mass meeting of citizens at the city hall.

Two hundred and fifty special officers were sworn in to patrol the fire swept district. All the homeless have been cared for temporarily.

As a result of destruction of water, light and power plants, street car service was abandoned.

PARLIAMENTARY UNION OF AMERICA AND JAPAN

Formation at The Hague, Completed on Lines of France and Germany.

The Hague, Sept. 6.—An American-Japanese parliamentary union was formed yesterday by delegates representing the two nations at the international conference. The organization, due to the initiative of Victor Hugo Duras, of New York, follows the lines of the one already effected between the French and German groups. At the preliminary meeting of the new union a resolution introduced by James Luth Stuyden, congressman from Texas, was adopted expressing the desire to effect an organization for the purpose of encouraging relations between the two great powers of the Orient and the Occident.

Dr. Shimidzu, a member of the Japanese parliament, was elected provisional chairman, and William D. B. Ainsie, congressman from Pennsylvania, temporary secretary.

EIGHT AWAIT TRIAL ON OPIUM SMUGGLING

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 6.—By the arrest early yesterday morning at the international boundary line near Tia Juana of J. Swanson, on whom was found a list of opium, Customs Inspector W. B. Evans, of Tia Juana, has made an average of four cans a day since August 7, the seizures totaling 126 tins.

Opium smuggling in spite of the seizures has been carried on extensively of late between San Diego and Ensenada, customs officers say, and there are now in the county jail eight persons, seven men and one woman, awaiting trial.

RIP VAN WINKLE OF REAL LIFE WRITING

Orson Howard Compiling Story of 45 Years Absence at 84 Years of Age

Jackson, Mich., Sept. 6.—In a comfortable little home just east of here, Orson Howard, 84 years old, a Rip Van Winkle of real life, is writing the story of his forty years' mysterious absence from his family.

Laboriously he has transcribed scores of pages, which each night he looks in a heavy chest. He will let no one see what he has written. He does not know his wife, but calls her "Aunt." Nor does he recognize his two sons, thinking they are cousins. Thus, they have lived for three years, or since he was reunited with them following his mysterious disappearance.

Nearly forty-six years ago they resided in Laporte, Ind. They had been married four years. Howard shouldered a shotgun one morning and told his wife that he was going hunting, laughingly promising to bring home a bird for supper.

Night came and he had not returned. He was a husband of fine habits and fine repute. When he did not appear the next morning Mrs. Howard spread the alarm. A thorough search failed to uncover a trace of him. He had been young and light-hearted when he dropped out of sight, but when he returned he was bent, white-haired and crippled with age. Relatives in the west set Mrs. Howard on his trail three years ago, and he was found in Dodge City, Kas. In the meantime the Howards—mother and sons—had moved to Jackson.

It was a strange reunion. Howard was unable to remember Mrs. Howard as his wife, but he remembered Laporte and was able to tell of his wanderings. From this and from fragments of speech he drops as he sits and dreams day by day, the family have been able to piece together some of his history.

LEGAL FINIS WRITTEN ON BALDWIN'S ESTATE

Attorneys Who Completed Work Receive Fees of $180,000 Each From Court.

Los Angeles, Sept. 6.—As far as the courts are concerned, this was written to-day upon history of the estate of "Lucky" Baldwin, the famous turfman, built up from a racetrack "shoestring." The huge land holdings which were debt-burdened when the turfman died five years ago, now have a value of $1,800,000. In a successful administration, the court awarded the executors, Henry A. Unruh, brother of Baldwin's first wife, and Attorney Bradner W. Lee, fees of $180,000 each. Unruh and Lee fixed the fees themselves. If they had not the court said each would have been awarded $250,000 each.

The heirs are Baldwin's two daughters, Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker and Mrs. Anita Baldwin McLaughrey. These two secure the estate which has been held nearly intact, despite the onslaughts of numerous litigants and claimants after Baldwin's death.

WOMEN ESCORT MEN FROM CALUMET MINES

Streets of Michigan Copper Town Still Patrolled by Cavalrymen.

Calumet, Mich., Sept. 6.—Women arrayed themselves against women in the copper mine strike situation yesterday. Women in families of non-union men have taken an active part in the cause of their men folk and are escorting them to and from work. They are determined to "mix" with women strike sympathizers should any of the latter attempt to interfere.

Last night one large muscular woman with a rock in one hand and a club in the other was observed escorting five men from the mine. She was unmolested. Some of the women have applied for positions as deputies, but some have been accepted.

The streets are patrolled by cavalrymen, infantry and deputies in automobiles. Women strike sympathizers were out in considerable numbers, but there was no trouble. Three special officers were fired on by unidentified persons, but were unharmed.

CAMINETTI IS FOUND GUILTY ON ONE COUNT

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—Guilty on one count of violation of the Mann white slave traffic act was the verdict found against F. Drew Caminetti, eldest son of the commissioner-general of immigration.

The jury was out three hours and took eight ballots. From the first, the vote stood 10 to 2 for conviction, and finally two agreed to compromise by finding a verdict of guilty on one of the four counts charged.

Sentence will be pronounced Wednesday.

DIAZ PRESIDENTIAL TICKET COMPLETED

Mexico City, Sept. 6.—The presidential ticket of General Felix Diaz was completed yesterday by the designation of Jose Luis Reguena as candidate for the vice-presidency at a meeting of the Felix Diaz party leaders.

Senor Reguena is a prominent lawyer, president of the chamber of mines of Mexico and chairman of the Felix Diaz party organization.

The followers of General Diaz expect the head of the ticket to return to Mexico by the end of this month.

NEXT MUNICIPAL CONVENTION

Alderman Gleason Elected Member of Executive Committee at Vancouver

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—Mayor J. T. Robinson, of Kamloops, was elected president, and Kamloops was selected as the place for the 1914 convention of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities.

The resolution committee made many suggestions which were approved by the convention, and which are to be submitted to the government for consideration. The convention advocated municipalities being allowed to invest sinking funds in debentures of other municipalities; the question of the government bearing an equal proportion of increases in school teachers' salaries; the matter of prison reform; and the power to deal with men neglecting their families.

They referred to the executive the matter of grants for trunk roads, and decided not to take action with reference to questions as to the government guaranteeing municipal bonds, the issue of treasury certificates, and rebates on school taxes. The proposal to the effect that municipalities have more general power to pass by-laws for doing public work was approved.

A resolution was submitted in favor of a suitable government annual grant per mile for trunk roads. The committee was not prepared to make a suggestion on the subject, preferring the matter to be considered by the convention. This was done, Mr. Henderson, of Goldstream, putting the case before the convention.

F. W. Peters moved that the matter be referred to the executive committee to bring before the government, which was carried.

In regard to the question of the taxes on lands reverting to the Crown in organized districts where such land was subject to a quarter reversion to the Crown on subdivision, the committee did not see its way to offer suggestions, leaving it to the convention. It was moved that taxes on such lands should be paid to the municipality. The chairman considered that a legal question, and not one for the consideration of the convention. The proposal carried.

The resolution to the effect that public labor bureaus, similar to those in Great Britain, New Zealand, Australia, Germany and the United States be established by the federal government was then debated. Ex-Reeve Smart considered the convention would be out of order in not confining themselves to affairs of the province. The resolution was defeated by a large majority.

Then came up the proposal that the government be asked to bring in legislation to permit municipalities to invest sinking funds in debentures of other municipalities in British Columbia. After discussion this was adopted.

The resolution proposing an amendment to the section of the act regarding tuberculosis patients in hospitals being retained ninety instead of thirty days, was, in face of the contention that it would work hardships on hospitals, referred to the executive for consideration.

In reference to the appointment of a solicitor for the union to watch legislation, ex-Reeve Smart moved that Mr. McDermid be re-engaged in the capacity, at a salary of $1,000 a year, the expense to be apportioned.

In regard to the place for the next convention, Alderman Gleason, of Victoria, placed before the meeting a request that Victoria be selected, but Mayor Gray, of New Westminster, considered it was understood that the coast and inland cities should be alternated as the places for the holding of the convention. On the motion of ex-Mayor Sutherland, New Westminster, Kamloops was unanimously selected as the place for the next convention.

Alderman Gleason then nominated Mayor Robinson as the next president, and Mayor Robinson was unanimously elected to the position. Mayor Baxter, Vancouver, was unanimously elected vice-president, and ex-Reeve Rose, Surrey, was unanimously elected as honorary secretary-treasurer.

The executive committee was then appointed as follows: F. W. Peters, Prince Rupert; Mayor Jones, Kelowna; Reeve May, North Vancouver; District; Alderman Gleason, Victoria; Mayor Shaw, Nanaimo; Mayor Gray, New Westminster, and Mayor Kilpatrick, Revelstoke.

STOCK FARM EXHIBIT AT WESTMINSTER FAIR

Thoroughbred Horses and Prize Cows Shown but Not Offered for Sale.

New Westminster, B. C., Sept. 6.—A feature of the provincial exhibition which will be held in New Westminster from September 29 until October 4, inclusive, will be the exhibit of stock from the provincial colony farm at Mount Coquitlam.

These fine specimens of thoroughbreds, that have been gathered together at an expense of thousands of dollars, including Clydesdales, shire and hackneys, and some of the best of the exceedingly fine Holsteins cows, will be on exhibition only, and will not enter any of the competitions.

Dr. C. E. Doherty, under whose auspices the stock has been obtained, has decided to enter the animals for competition only at shows outside the province, and they will be seen at the international stock show in Detroit in November and December.

ANOTHER ROMANCE OF THE PEERAGE

Amazing Claim of a Gardener Who Declares He is the Marquis of Waterford

London, Sept. 6.—George Toth, a jobbing gardener of Norwood, tells a romantic story of his history, and promises to retell it in the law courts, where he proposes to prosecute a claim to the peerage of Waterford and the estates, comprising about 65,700 acres. Toth has been gardening for 15 years, and during the whole of that time has, it is said, been collecting evidence to support his claim. It is understood that he is now receiving financial support from a lady who thinks that at least it is a case for inquiry.

Toth says he believes himself to be the legitimate son of the fifth Marquis of Waterford, who, in 1895, shot himself following an injury to the spine through falling from his horse. A son was born to the marchioness at Chessham Place, on March 29, 1873, and, according to the formal announcement in the Times, it was still-born. Toth contends that the child was born alive, and that it was he.

His case is that as a newly-born infant he was placed in the care of a Mrs. Duncan, who brought him up at the expense of the peerage. The marchioness died on April 4, 1873, and there is no recorded issue of the marriage. This date Toth alleges to be that of his birth, and that the death certificate of the marchioness, as registered at Somerset House, was without a doctor's signature. The maiden name of the marchioness was Rowley. She was the daughter of a major in the Bombay army. She first married the Hon. J. C. W. Vivian, M.P., from whom she was divorced. Then, in 1872, she married the fifth Marquis of Waterford at the registry office of St. George's, Hanover Square.

Marquis's Reply to Claim.

For the present holder of the title, it is stated that Georgina Toth, a single woman and a cook in the service of Mrs. Vivian, became a mother in Holborn Union on January 25, 1872, and died there. Mrs. Vivian, it is alleged, caused the child, John Toth, to be moved to the Franciscan Convent, Nottingham, for a few days, after which he was placed by her maid in the care of a Mrs. Jones, whose address is not known. Further, it is asserted that this child was afterwards handed over to the care of Mrs. Duncan, and is the present claimant.

In 1874 the fifth marquis married Lady Blanche, daughter of the eighth Duke of Beauford, by whom there were three children. His son Henry, who succeeded him, was drowned about two years ago. The latter's son, John Charles, born of the youngest daughter of the fifth Marquis of Lansdowne, is 12 years of age, and is the present holder of the title.

The Mrs. Duncan referred to is dead, but her daughter is alive, and remembers Toth being brought to her mother as a puny infant. For 16 years the fifth marquis, so it is said, paid two guineas a month for his maintenance. The child was taken every month to the fifth marquis's house, when the money was paid to Mrs. Duncan or her daughter. The last installment was when Toth was 16 years of age, when an allowance for three months was paid in advance, with a notification that the boy was now old enough to work for his own living.

In an interview with a press representative Mrs. Duncan's daughter is reported to have expressed the view that Toth is son of a cook in the service of the fifth marquis at his London house.

MUCH GRAIN WILL GO BY AMERICAN ROUTES

Winnipeg, Sept. 6.—That the grain blockade which is said to have occurred at Montreal will have no effect on the movement of the western grain crop more than to cause a great deal of it to be shipped by way of the American ports instead of the Canadian ports, is the statement made by W. B. Lanigan, freight traffic manager of the C. P. R. Mr. Lanigan points out that, with a blockade at Montreal it would be impossible to ship large quantities of the grain there from Fort William because it could not be taken care of. Therefore most of it will be sent down to New York by way of Buffalo and other American routes.

Speaking of the movement of the western crop which has already commenced, Mr. Lanigan stated that since September 1 no less than 633 carloads of grain had been loaded on C. P. R. lines. There were 250 cars of grain loaded yesterday and 351 marketed.

TAKE UP PRIZE-FIGHTING AND RACING REFORMS

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—In a special report on the enforcement of the law in this province, Professor G. C. Pidgeon at the annual meeting of the social and moral reform council yesterday in Hamilton hall, referred to the racing at Minoru Park. It was stated that the reeve of the municipality of Richmond had given full assurance that the law would be strictly enforced. The question of prize fighting and its legality was also discussed and a committee was appointed to go fully into the matter.

CONTINUE OPIUM SEARCH.

San Francisco, Sept. 6.—The search for smuggled opium on the liners Manchuria and Chiyu Maru continued throughout the day, with the result that the customs officers found a small quantity of the contraband in a locker on the Chiyu Maru. The drug was found packed in metal shoeboxes. A dozen of these, each containing about $20 worth of opium, were found.

Nemo

On Thursday next, Sept. 11, at 3 p.m., Dr. Maude L. Dunne, Director Netho Hygienic Fashion Institute, will give a free corset lecture, with charts and living models. It will not be a corset demonstration, but an instructive lecture which every woman should take advantage of.

A BURLESQUE.

Every responsible newspaper in Canada has demanded that the Immigration Act be enforced and the undesirable Thaw deported. The board of inquiry yesterday decided that the fugitive would have to re-cross the boundary line, but his counsel obtained from a friendly Montreal judge a writ of habeas corpus, which for the time being has restrained his deportation. We are informed that the arrival of the writ at Coaticook was received with tumultuous cheering and that a band played the National Anthem under the windows of the perversely assassin of Stanford White.

If this sort of thing continues the Canadian administration of law will be degraded to the very gutter. For years we have been inclined to look upon this branch in the United States with lofty contempt, but we find that dollars can tangle up our laws just as easily as they can those of New York state. The Immigration act, passed by the highest assembly in this country, explicitly provides for the deportation of such men as Thaw. The case would be different if he were charged with a crime in the United States and held in Canada for extradition. But he is not held under these circumstances. He was an inmate of an insane asylum and there is a clear provision in the Immigration act which deals with his case.

His lawyers boast that he will never be deported, in spite of the clear-cut law enacted by the parliament of this country. Is there not something rotten in the state of our legal system when such a possibility exists? The other day thirty poor immigrants were deported from Montreal because they did not meet with the requirements of our regulations. Does not this establish the soundness of the indictment from certain quarters that Canada has two sets of laws, one for the rich and the other for the poor? It is not denied that Thaw escaped from an insane asylum and entered this country by stealth. Why then is he not deported? The trouble is that the continent of America is cursed with law to the elimination of common sense.

OFFENSIVE, "IMPERIALISM."

W. E. Home writes a letter to the Colonist on the water question. In this communication the writer states that the Times says "we can build just as good dreadnoughts in Canada as they do in England." What the question of the construction of warships has to do with the matter of water supply for Victoria is not very clear. Neither is it quite apparent why Mr. Home should drag the naval issue into a mere domestic matter unless the opportunity for the indulgence of a sneer at the capacity or skill of Canadians in the industrial arts was considered too good to lose. The trouble with most so-called Imperialists who are making considerable din in Canada at the present time is that they cannot be persuaded that "colonials" are not an inferior people compared with the class who have chosen to stay at home or that other class who have come to this country and organized themselves into a group and from an assumed vantage point of superiority view with ill-concealed contempt every ambition or aspiration of "mere Canadians."

As a matter of fact, the Times defies Mr. Home to point out one instance in which we have contended that "we can build just as good dreadnoughts as they do in England." But we do not admit that Canadians are in any respect inferior to Englishmen, Irishmen or Scotsmen, and we do maintain that what the Japanese have done, what Germans have done, what Americans have done, and what Australians are doing, Canadians, given the time and opportunity, can do. There was a time when Germans could not build even steel vessels for commercial purposes.

They brought skilled artisans from Britain to instruct them in the art, and in a very few years they were capable of turning out not only dreadnoughts but craft of the dimensions of the Imperator.

Still people afflicted with mental strabismus, like Mr. Home, cannot refrain from insinuating that Canadians can never hope to build ships; that their only hope of national salvation lies in making annual contributions towards the maintenance of the British navy.

INCREASE THEIR PAY.

The Attorney-General as chief law officer is charged with responsibility for the maintenance of order in the province. When trouble arose in the strike district, his department dispatched a mere handful of special policemen to cope with it. Then, finding these inadequate, the militia were called out. The Attorney-General, we understand, assumes responsibility for calling upon the soldiers to assist the provincial police, although the district officer commanding, as a matter of course, received the formal requisitions of three magistrates as required by the act.

Under the act the privates are allowed one dollar per day pay and fifty cents per day for subsistence when on duty of this character. This is supposed to be paid by the civic authority in whose behalf the militia are called out, the Dominion in the meantime advancing the necessary allowances. In the unorganized districts, such as Exeter and Wellington, the province being the only administrative authority, will undoubtedly have to pay.

The Attorney-General was asked to see that the men were paid the same amount as the special constables, which is $2.50 per day, and flatly declined to do so. He is going to entrench himself behind the militia act, and wherever the province has to pay will dole out a dollar per day to the men whose assistance he had to invoke when his own machinery for the protection of life and property had broken down. We contend that those soldiers should receive the same pay as the special constables are receiving. In both the organized and unorganized communities, and where the province under the act is not responsible for the pay, the rate should be supplemented by a grant sufficient to bring it to this amount.

Many of the soldiers have suffered financial loss through their service, and one dollar a day and the Attorney-General's airy nonsense that "it is all in the militia men's game" are a species of frigid buncombe characteristically Powersque. The services rendered by the militiamen cannot be over-estimated. The soldiers restored order out of the chaos which would never have arisen had the Attorney-General taken effective measures at the beginning. They performed their duty with so much tact, firmness and consideration for all parties that they won the respect of both the conflicting factions in the troubled communities in which they were stationed. Surely they should receive as much as the special constables who would never have been able to do their work at all had it not been for their efforts.

On the shoulders of the Attorney-General lies a moral responsibility in this matter, and he should not be permitted to dodge it by hiding behind the militia act. He owes a debt of gratitude to the soldiers, and the taxpayers of this province will not grudge a grant sufficient to raise their remuneration above the status of a joke. The militiamen do not regard their experience in the light of a revenue producer, but a wealthy province with expanding revenues should not expect them to protect its interests altogether at a sacrifice.

PARTY GOVERNMENT.

Two erudite gentlemen in the east have been debating the merits and demerits of party government. Professor Adam Shortt, former teacher of political economy at Queen's University and now a civil service commissioner, declares that the system is the invention of Satan, made worse by human professionals, while Professor McPhail, of Montreal, says that if party government were abolished worse evils would follow.

The most ardent supporters of the system freely admit its defects, but nobody has immortalized himself so far as to suggest a feasible substitute. It would be interesting and entertaining to learn from Professor Adam Shortt what he proposes to take the place of that which he picturesquely describes as a Satanic invention. The only alternative that presents itself is absolute despotism, the unlimited rule of a single individual; but the profane history of the world has exhibited no person qualified to enjoy supreme mundane power. We know this to be true, because one-man rule has been tried. Had it been satisfactory, there would have been no party government, which originated from the dissatisfaction of those who were so ruled.

The abandonment of party government is only possible with the abolition of representative government. The existence of the one involves that of the other. There are bound to be two or more factions in every gathering; even a sewing circle is not unanimous. These factions have existed in the various assemblies from the dawn of civilization, in fact away back in the distant aeons beyond that, for we are not told that Lucifer and his myrmidons were hurled from the celestial heights because of aspirations for Supreme Leadership?

The countries in which party government has been most widely adopted are the most enlightened and progressive in the world. The countries in which one-man rule exists are the most backward in the world. If Satanic inspiration is working through the political systems of Great Britain, United States, France and Canada, as Professor Shortt's dictum would imply, what particular species of devilry operates in Russia, Persia and Turkey, where the one-man theory has been tried and found wanting?

A parliament or legislative assembly in which there are not at least two factions is not worthy of the name. Although in British Columbia the party system exists, at the present time the legislature is almost wholly composed of men of one political mind. This probably approximates more closely to Professor Shortt's ideal than anything else. And yet the parliament of this province is nothing but the veriest farce. The legislation that is passed is undigested and poorly drawn. Measures that are not even read are thrust upon the statute books by the complaisant members, who are absolutely dominated by two men. If there is one thing the legislature of this province requires to-day it is a larger exemplification of the system of party government, so sweepingly condemned by Professor Shortt, in the shape of a strong and vigilant party opposition.

There always will be party government, at least until Providence in its wisdom gives the earth a people of but one mind. There always will be exponents and opponents of measures and methods. The present system is defective because human beings, even university professors, are defective. But it will become better or worse just as the world grows better or worse.

There is some talk of enacting a code for the government of those who go up in the air in ships. Hardly seems necessary. Few of the navigators, under present conditions, live long enough to commit the rules to memory.

COUNTRY IS "HET UP."

From the Los Angeles Express.
It was so hot in Philadelphia the other day that an egg thrown at a bad actor flattened out over his countenance in a leathery smooch and dropped to the floor with a thud. The weather in Chicago melted the heart of a pawnbroker and turned him into a philanthropist. In Indiana it fused two political parties and caused two trains to run together, and in Washington it dissolved a trust. In other words, the country is "het up" this week.

SHE WANTED TO KEEP 'EM.

From the New York Post.
Aunt Cindy was running around the yard in the rear of her cabin seeking to drive into her henhouse a dozen or so of chickens that seemed anxious to go anywhere but in the henhouse.
"Why do you go to all that trouble, Aunt Cindy?" asked a passer-by. "Don't you know that chickens come home to roost?"
"Sho, I know it, white folks," answered Aunt Cindy, "an' dat's de trouble dey's goin' home to roost."

COMMONS MUST RULE.

(Toronto Star.)
It is not to be supposed that even a reformed House of Lords will be allowed to exercise equal power with the House of Commons. One of the other must have the deciding voice. A second chamber, may give the voice of the people a chance to be heard. But in the long run the House of Commons, if it perseveres, must prevail.

TO MAKE NAVY ATTRACTIVE.

From the Winnipeg Free Press.
The naval service could be made most attractive to young Canadian seafaring men if there were adopted the plan adopted in the United States, where among the many inducements to enlist in the navy is the fact that the fact that every boy is given instruction, at his choice, in electricity, engineering, or other trades, so that at the close of the four years he has learned a trade.

MEXICO AND SERBIA.

From the Hamilton Times.
Evidently believing that Huerta was responsible for President Madero's murder, President Wilson refuses to recognize the Huertist government. The case is somewhat similar to that of Serbia. King Peter was blamed for the assassination of the former King and Queen, and neither King Edward nor the British government would have anything to do with Peter.

NO WONDER.

Exchange.
Dr. Lyman Abbott, at a luncheon at the Colony Club in New York, was arguing the suffrage question with a prominent suffragette.
"There's one thing you must admit," said the woman, "and that is, a man, no matter how young, fresh, and handsome, will get tired of a woman, no matter how old, faded, and homely, sooner than a woman will get tired of a man, no matter how old, faded, and homely."
"Well, no wonder," Dr. Abbott retorted. "Look how often she changes it!"

A TRUE CANADIAN.

"I am a Canadian, and a descendant of the United Empire Loyalists, and I am, as all Canadians must be, proud of the British Empire; but it will never be held together by her colonies paying tribute. We must build for ourselves that we may take care of ourselves, and relieve the Mother Country of that expense in whatever way we can best help her."
—So writes F. E. Wagner, of Eastbrook, Saskatchewan, to a Winnipeg newspaper.

THE MARBLE HEART.

He (making poor headway): "Will nothing induce you to change your mind and marry?"
She: "Another man might."

VICTORIA COUPLE WED.

Mr. Arthur D. Macfarlane and Miss Myrtle Sargison Quietly Married Last Wednesday.

The marriage of Mr. Arthur Douglas Macfarlane and Miss Myrtle Sargison took place on Wednesday last at the Metropolitan Methodist church at 11 p.m. Rev. Dr. Scott officiating. The church was beautifully decorated with white asters by friends of the happy couple. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. James Sargison, looked sweetly pretty in her dainty gown of white crepe de chine, er train, the bodice trimmed with a fichu of beautiful lace finished at the waist with a cluster of orange blossoms, the usual veil and orange blossoms completing the costume. Her only ornaments were a dainty necklace of pearls and emeralds, the gift of her mother, and a beautiful bracelet from the bridegroom, and her bridal bouquet was of bride roses and lily of the valley.

Miss Marion Erskine, the maid of honor, was dressed in blue satin with hat to match trimmed with tulle bows, her bouquet being of pale pink asters. The bride's tiny sister made a lovely little flower girl dressed in white linon, carrying a basket of pink rose buds and sweet peas. Mr. W. Ivel acted as best man and Messrs. Pearson and Ferguson as ushers. A reception was afterwards held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sargison, 232 Superior street, the reception rooms being beautifully decorated with roses and sweet peas and the dining room very daintily with white asters, pale pink roses and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Macfarlane afterwards left for San Diego, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride travelling in a blue tailored suit with black tulle. The bridegroom's gift to the maid of honor was a cameo brooch, and to the best man and ushers scarf pins.

ARRIVES TO-MORROW.

Chief Stores Commissioner Burbridge Comes From Mainland in the Morning.

H. E. Burbridge, chief stores commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, will arrive in Victoria to-morrow morning on board the midnight boat from Vancouver. He will stay in this city for a month, and it is expected that the commissioner will make some definite announcement as to the building of the new store in Victoria. Mr. Burbridge will in all probability stay at the Dallas hotel during his sojourn in this city.

Introducing New Fall Styles

AND if it is possible have surpassed their former efforts to lead in style and quality. Women who are already acquainted with this brand know what comfort they are and the women who have not yet tried them have a treat in store that is well worth trying. With the big shipment that has just been unloaded and marked off we have now a complete range of new Fall styles and as all sizes and widths are to be had you are sure of securing a perfect fitting and most comfortable shoe. As to style and quality, there's not a brand on the market, to our knowledge, that can approach them. Many new and novel styles are on show, including the new conservative shape with flatter toe and low heel, also the high heel is well represented. Button boots predominate in patent and gun-metal, while lace styles are well represented. Black and dark brown are the leading colors, although many models are shown in a lighter shade. The flexible soles make them exceptionally easy on your feet, and it's almost impossible to exaggerate the comfort that they impart or their stylish appearance. Nothing but a close examination of the goods or a practical trial can give you a real impression of their value. Prices from $5.00 to$7.00

MORE LIGHTS NEEDED ALONG ALASKA COAST

United States Government is Again Being Rapped Over Knuckles for Slow Action

Following the deplorable disaster which overtook the Pacific Coast steamship State of California, which carried 33 persons to their death when she sank in Gambler Bay, Alaska, early on the morning of August 17, marine papers in the United States are again rapping the government of that country over the knuckles for its failure in adequately lighting the treacherous northern coast. The manner in which the British Columbia coast is marked with aids to navigation is lauded by these papers and they compare passing from Canadian waters into Alaska waters by night, as passing from day into night.

The Railway and Marine News, a Seattle publication, among many things has the following to say: "At intervals during the past ten years agitation has been started and the attention of congress has been called to this very important matter. Congress has been petitioned for appropriations for more and better aids in the district of Alaska, extending from Portland Canal, where the B. C. coast line terminates, to different parts of call to the westward as far as Nome and St. Michael. This agitation, made at different times, has borne fruit in a small way, and while Alaskan waters are much better lighted and marked than they were ten years ago, the increase in these much-needed aids to navigation has not by any means kept pace with the growth in commerce."

"Gambler Bay, the scene of the recent deplorable wreck, was first charted in 1880, and the latest charts were compiled from figures obtained at that time. In the charts a long reef is shown, but not a single buoy marks the location of this dangerous line of rocks. In the case of the State of California, it can be stated that the vessel was on her regular course at twenty-seven minutes after eight in the morning, and at twenty-nine minutes after eight struck the submerged rock which ripped out her bottom plates, and thirty-two minutes after eight the ship disappeared from sight. The oldest Indian living on Gambler Bay never heard of the rock which caused the State of California to sink. Praise Canadian Methods.

"In Canadian waters, whenever a new canner is located or a new village grows to the importance of demanding steamship service, that government's survey boats immediately appear and secure data for reliable charts. After the survey work is done, the lighthouse department gets busy and places wherever necessary, aids to navigation. True, the coast line of Alaska is very much more extensive than that of British Columbia, but nevertheless, the Coast and Geodetic survey and the lighthouse department should be given sufficient funds to prosecute work where vessels are navigated in these waters.

"In an examination of the list of vessels lost in Alaska waters during a period of years extending from 1873 to date, it is found that the stupendous total of $7,340,000 has been paid out by underwriters for total losses and sums nearly as great has been paid out for vessels that have met with disaster, been salvaged and restored to their owners."

BOTH FISHING SCHOONERS THOUGHT LOST SHOW UP

Portland, Ore., Sept. 4.—The two missing fishing vessels, the schooner Fremont and the sloop Pilgrim, for whose safety great anxiety was felt, as they had been caught in the heavy storms off the Oregon coast early this week, and both safe. The Pilgrim entered the mouth of the Columbia river, 140 miles north of her destination, last evening, and the Fremont appeared off the mouth of Yaquina bay at noon and is awaiting the flood tide to enter the harbor. The vessels were blown far out of their course while fishing on the halibut banks twelve miles off the Yaquina harbor, but weathered the storms.

DESERT ENGINE ROOM WITH SHIP IN DANGER

Engineers of Wrecked Curacoa Are Criticized at Inquiry; Little Water Was Below

Seattle, Sept. 4.—That the chief engineer and his assistants deserted the engine room of the steamer Curacoa when the water was only one inch deep and so could not turn steam when called upon by the captain of the vessel after she had struck near Heceta Island, Alaska, June 21, was the testimony offered yesterday by C. L. McGregor, pilot of the Curacoa, before Marine Inspector Ron E. Whitney and Robert A. Turner.

McGregor declared that the vessel did not sink until shortly after noon, although it struck the rock early in the morning. He testified that they immediately rushed her to the Swiss cannery dock, where they asked the superintendent for the best place to superintend the beaching. The superintendent pointed out the mouth of a small creek, toward which they headed.

McGregor said that they left the dock shortly after 9 o'clock and steamed for the beach. At 11 o'clock he went down into the engine room, he said, and found it entirely deserted by his crew. The water, he said, was trickling in and was only an inch or two deep. He declared it was entirely safe for the men to work there.

The witness testified that Capt. William Thompson, master of the vessel, called on the chief engineer to furnish some steam, and received a reply that there wasn't any except what was in the boilers. When the vessel was run on the beach, it was found to be steep like other Alaskan shores on the inland passage, and she slid off into deep water.

Capt. A. L. Olson, another pilot of the Curacoa, was called as a witness following McGregor. Charges have been preferred against Capt. Thompson, charging him with negligence at the time of the wreck. The Curacoa was a total loss.

PUT TO SEA RATHER THAN GO ON ROCKS

Little Fishing Schooner Alliance No. 1 Was Driven From Harbor but Southeast Storm

Forced to put to sea from a sheltered harbor owing to the shifting of the wind which threatened to drive her ashore, the little fishing schooner Alliance No. 1, Capt. Armstrong, which was bound for Port Angeles, was almost battered to pieces by the great seas which a 65-mile southeast gale whipped up. One of the two dories carried by the two-master had the stern of it smashed in by a great green comber which found its way aboard.

In speaking of the trip this morning, Capt. Armstrong said that the Alliance had been away from port for 12 days and had caught about 12,000 lbs. of fish. The first two days out from port the weather held good, but then it came on to blow from the W. N. W. and continued to howl from that quarter by then ever, and with her small gasoline engine working and under a reefed foresail the schooner stuck her nose into the heavy seas. Capt. Armstrong, who has been fishing for 18 years, mostly on the Atlantic coast, said that he never was out in such a storm. The wind attained a velocity of 65 miles and hour and the sea was tremendous. The Alliance pitched and tossed, and at times she was completely smothered in the seas. One of the dories was smashed in and the crew would not have been surprised if she had been overcome. Finally the weather subsided and another day's fishing was put in.

The real west coast weather has not set in and the fishing boats will have hard times getting good catches.

There is a possibility that more motor boats will be purchased for the Shumai Railroad at Almo, Japan. The bus line extends from Almo station to Ohama, where are located some hot springs and several hotels.

WRECKAGE PILES UP ON SEA BIRD ROCKS

Three Scows Cut Adrift by Tug Orontes Are Total Loss; Lifeboat Put Out to Rescue

More wreckage has piled up on the Sea Bird rocks, on the west coast of Vancouver island, on which lie the bones of the American schooner Sequel, which was lost several years ago during heavy weather. Three scows heavily laden with freight have come to grief on these jagged rocks, through a fierce gale striking the tug Orontes, which was on her way from Vancouver to Uchucklest. The craft are all total losses.

Information received by the Times is to the effect that the Orontes had to cut the scows adrift, as they became unmanageable in the heavy seas. The Orontes then headed for a place of shelter, hoping to pick up the scows when the storm abated. The three craft drifted past Pacheena and as it was thought that some one might be aboard them a message was sent to the Banfield life-saving station to have the power life-boat put to sea.

The life-boat battled against wind and wave and when the helpless craft were discovered they were in close proximity to the Sea Bird reef. It was impossible to rescue the scows and the crew of the life-boat watched them drift on the rocks and pound to pieces as the heavy seas lifted and dropped them with a smash on the ragged pinnacles.

The Orontes, which arrived from the Old Country last winter to act as a tender for the new Uchucklest cannery built by the Wallace Fisheries, Ltd., of Vancouver, is a powerful vessel but in heavy weather off the west coast the task of handling three scows is a rather hazardous task. Fortunately no one happened to be on the scows and they went to their graveyard without taking human life.

BRISGAVIA IS REACHING QUARANTINE AT DAYLIGHT

The Hamburg-American liner Brisgavia again reported from sea this morning and at 8 o'clock was approximately 200 miles north-west of Victoria. She is looked for at William Head at daylight to-morrow morning. According to available information the Brisgavia will not come to this port, proceeding direct to Vancouver.

A RELATED DENIAL

A deliberate attempt was made in this morning's issue of our contemporary to deny the story published in last evening's Times to the effect that the Osaka Shosen Kaisha had ordered three new liners as large as the Empress of Asia and half a knot faster, and in the meantime while they are building would send two 20-knot ships here. Capt. Goto, master of the steamship Chicago Maru, is the authority who is supposed to quote the denial. As far as Capt. Goto is concerned he may have known nothing whatever about the new ships. And furthermore the Times did not secure its information from Capt. Goto. As was stated in the news came in private advice. The captain of steamers are not always considered and told of the intentions of their companies. If the Colonist thought that Capt. Goto's news was important enough to publish this morning, why did it not publish it yesterday morning? Ample time was afforded, as the Chicago Maru arrived here on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock and left again four hours later.

TRoublesome CREW IS PAID OFF TO-DAY

Seamen of Estevan Were Discontented Throughout Trip; Tender Making Good Speed

Probably one of the most troublesome crews ever carried on a steamer operating out of this port, was paid off from the lighthouse tender Estevan, Capt. Barnes, to-day. During the length of time that the vessel was away from Victoria looking for aids to navigation discontent reigned in the forecastle. Owing to the fact that no seamen can be obtained in Prince Rupert the master of the Estevan was unable to discharge any of the men on board.

The seamen commenced to complain of the grub not long after getting away from Victoria. They believed they had a grievance and kept on harping about it, making things anything but pleasant for the officers. It is stated that the food was alright, the same as that supplied to any other tender, but that the cooks were not proficient in their art.

Some of the men who posed as able-bodied seamen had never been to sea before in their lives. The men were discontented over their work as well as the grub and were slow in carrying out the orders of the officers.

The speed is increasing.

Chief Engineer Sutherland, of the Estevan, says that the tender is now picking up her speed. Upon the arrival of the steamer from Collingwood, Ont., about the best she could make was 5 1/2 knots an hour. During the 100 days she was absent from Victoria the engineers have been remedying the faults in the ship's mechanism and on one occasion Chief Engineer Sutherland drove the Estevan at 19 knots for three hours. At an ordinary speed now the tender can easily make 11 knots, which is a fine improvement. The Estevan is very dirty after her lengthy stay in northern waters and will probably be hauled out on the ways before being sent out on port again.

A GREAT BELIEVER IN "FRUIT-A-TIVES"

Well Known Ontario Merchant Has Cured Him.

MR. JAMES DOBSON.

Bronte, Ont., March 1, 1912.
"Fruit-a-tives" has made a complete cure in my case of rheumatism, that had at least five years standing before I commenced the treatment. The trouble was principally in my right hip and shoulder, the pain from it was almost unendurable. Not being able to sleep on that side, if I chanced to turn on my right side while asleep, the pain would immediately awaken me.
This kept up until I started taking "Fruit-a-tives." I started by taking one or two tablets with a large glass of water, in the morning before breakfast, and experienced pronounced relief
very shortly. After a continued treatment for about six months, I was cured and am now in first-class health.
This I attribute to my persistent use of "Fruit-a-tives," and I heartily recommend your remedy to any Rheumatic sufferers.

ADVENTUROUS CAREER.

J. G. Ludwick, Now Here, Was One of Five to Witness Last Sun Dance of the Cree Indians.

Irving G. Ludwick, who has been in practically every part of the habitable globe, is visiting the Pacific Coast for the first time in twenty years, and naturally was astonished at the marvellous changes that have taken place in that time.

Mr. Ludwick's career has been one series of interesting events and narrow escapes. On his many trips across the Atlantic ocean he has seen adventures that would be considered impossible if put into the form of fiction.
One of the most interesting sights, he says, that he has ever seen, was the last sun dance of the Cree Indians near Qu'Appelle about nineteen years ago,
he being one of the five white men to witness this cruel self-imposed torture. In 1897 Mr. Ludwick went into the gold regions of Death Valley and Nearsby, California, where he very nearly died of exposure and thirst. He again nearly lost his life by taking passage in the ill-fated Titanic, but decided to postpone his sailing just before the ship departed.

Mr. Ludwick is in the West as the special foreign representative of Messrs. A. Wulff & Company.

How to Absorb an Unlovely Complexion

(Phyllis Moore in Town Talk.)
The face which is admired for its beauty must have a satin-smooth skin, pink and white and youthful looking. The only thing I know of that can make such a complexion out of an aged, faded, or dis-colored one—I mean a natural, not a painted, complexion—is ordinary mercuri-alized wax. This remarkable substance literally absorbs the unsightly cuticle, a little each day, the clear, healthy, girly skin beneath gradually peeping out until within a week or so it is wholly in evidence. Of course such blemishes as freckles, moth patches, liver spots, blotches and pimples are discarded with the old skin. If you will procure an ounce of mercurized wax at the drug store, use the cold cream every night,
washing the face out morning, you'll find it a veritable wonder-worker.

Another valuable treatment is a wash lotion to remove wrinkles which can be easily prepared. Dissolve 1 oz.
powdered salicylic acid in 1 pt. witch hazel.
Bathe the face in this and you'll find it "works like magic."

LADIES' MUSICAL CLUB PLANS FINE SEASON

Third Year's Programme is Announced; Well Known Artists to Appear

ORGANIZATION WOULD ASSIST YOUNG STUDENTS

Working Toward Goal of Founding Scholarships; Look for Successful Season

The Ladies' Musical Club which has given such distinguished service during the past two seasons in providing the citizens with first-class concerts
which would otherwise have been impossible to obtain, has concluded arrangements for its third season, and will inaugurate the new series of entertainments on October 29 with a concert by Mme. Schumann-Heink, the famous contralto.

The season's programme is particularly inviting, and patrons who have supported the efforts of the society in the past by attending the concerts will be doubly keen to enter their names for season tickets, when they realize the standing of the artists who are being presented during the year. In doing so they will not only be gratifying their own love of things artistic,
but also they will be assisting the musical organization toward the realization of one of its ambitions, which is the founding of scholarships to assist students who show unusual musical talent. Since the first concert given under the auspices of the Ladies' Musical Club in the early winter of 1911-12, the finances of the organization have considerably improved. At that time it required all the optimism
of the most optimistic to carry forward an enterprise which the public was languid in supporting. The second season, although at first giving but modest results, found a public more confident and more readily prepared to support, and as one artistic success after another appeared under the auspices of the society the list of patrons swelled until the close of the season every house was filled almost to capacity point.

This, in all justice to the society,
was not effected without tremendous effort on the part of the ladies, and truly giant energy had to be put forward to arouse lethargic Victoria to a wholesome interest in the tempting fare which was within its reach. It is difficult to divorce the theatre-goer
from any particular taste, and the fre-quenter of musical comedy could scarce be persuaded of the merits of any other art. But the Ladies' Musical Club was bent on educating as well as pleasing the public, and by diligently hammering out the facts succeeded in winning the ear of the many. In consequence the society concluded its last season with a credit balance which surprised even the members. Then came the present more ambitious aspiration—not only to pay expenses, but to set aside and endow scholarships
which would tend to develop and encourage the budding talent of worthy young musicians in the city.

The present season will show how much they are justified in their public confidence. It is sincerely to be hoped that they will not be discouraged, and that Victoria may be assured for the years to come of the aid of an organization which brings to it only that which is best in the world of high musical accomplishment.

Here is the list of artists, in consecutive order: as they will appear:
Mme. Schumann-Heink, famous contralto, who made her international fame by singing at the Bayreuth festivals. Schumann-Heink was born at Lieben, near Prague, Austria, in 1861,
and was a daughter of Major Ressler;
she was educated at the Ursuline convent, Prague, and in 1882 married Mr.
Heink, her second husband being Paul Schumann, in the coupling of the names the prima-donna becoming known throughout the musical world.
When but 17 years of age she was the principal contralto at the Dresden Court Opera, and made her first appearance on the stage as Azucena in "Il Trovatore," in 1878. In 1883 she appeared as Ernestine Heink in Hamburg, and later sang a star engagement at Krahl's theatre, Berlin. Not long after she appeared at the Wagner festivals at Bayreuth, and won the notice of the best musical critics of the day. For several seasons she was a member of the Metropolitan Opera House Company, New York, and in 1905-6 starred in "Love's Lottery," since when she has appeared almost regularly every season at the great seat of opera in America.

Next in the series is Emilio de Gogorza, who, with his wife, Mme.
Eames, appeared at the first concert ever given under the auspices of the society in October, 1912, at the Victoria theatre. Senor de Gogorza is Spanish by birth, and possesses one of the finest baritone voices of the time, which, coupled with great musical culture and temperament, places him in the very front rank of operatic singers.
Mme. Marie Rhapsodie, a Metropolitan opera star, is a soprano well-known in the east, but, owing to the fact that she has never sung in any western city, her name is less familiar here than that of any of the other artists who are to appear during the season.
She is one of a quartette of great American sopranos who were reared in Brooklyn. As a girl she was both beautiful and talented, and for some time she satisfied her artistic impulses
by singing at concerts in several eastern cities given mostly by the German singing societies. It was in the spring of 1900 that the late Heinrich Corried discovered her, and shortly after she made her debut on the stage of the Metropolitan in the role of "Sulamith."

glory for making her a full-fledged prima donna she herself gives to Oscar Sanger, of New York. A woman of handsome presence, she was trained entirely in America, and adds to her operatic equipment a splendid repertoire for concert work.
American in practically everything
but birthplace and parentage, Mrs.
Fanny Bloomfield Ziesler is a splendid adventurer of the musical standing of her adopted country. The masterful pianist was born at Bielitz, Austrian Silesia, and was a daughter of Solomon Bloomfield, coming from the Old Land
to Chicago when but two years of age.
While still quite a child she exhibited extraordinary musical talent, and was taken to a good master long before she reached her teens. Later she went to Vienna, where she studied under Leschetizky. In 1885 she married Sigismund Ziesler, the well-known Chicago lawyer and platform orator (also a native of Bielitz), having for two years previously toured in the principal American cities giving pianoforte recitals. In 1888 she went to Germany, where she toured for two years after which she once more returned to the United States. Her recitals thereafter were continuous; in 1896 she had a short season in England, and four years later she toured Germany, Austria and France, and won wide recognition, her name to-day standing singularly alone among the great women exponents of pianoforte.

The last of the series, Fritz Kreisler,
is perhaps better known in Victoria
than any of the artists preceding him,
and "world-renowned violin virtuoso"
is almost too hackneyed a term to apply to such a master of the most beautiful of instruments. Kreisler, too, is one of the many musicians who have been given to the world by Vienna,
where he was born just 38 years ago.
He was educated at the Vienna conservatoire under Hellmesberger, and in Paris under Massart, when he won the Prix de Rome. His first London appearance was in 1902, and the sensation
he created was as lasting as it was big.
It is interesting to recall that the Ladies Musical Club has given fourteen concerts in the city, and an additional entertainment by Mme. Adelina Genes.
Those who appeared under the auspices of the organization, of which Mrs. Hermann Robertson is now serving for the third consecutive year as president, are
Mme. Eames, Emilio de Gogorza, Kubelik, de Pachmann, Senor, Gadsd, Fritz Kreisler and Claude Cunningham.
Mischa Elman, the Pionazley Quartette,
John McCormack, Ysaye, Clara Butt
and Kennedy Rumford, Lhevinne, Ricardo Martin and Rudolph Ganz, and Dr. Bruce Gordon Kingsley. "Pianoforte" was performed by an amateur juvenile company here last winter under their auspices, and a successful concert that during the ensuing season some similar entertainment will be arranged by a company of adult amateurs.

FIVE COMPANIES NOW

Promoters of New Highland Regiment Awaiting Approval From Ottawa
to Commence Drill.

The regiment to be known as the 5th Gordon Highlanders of Canada, of the headquarters and recruiting offices of which are at 1010 Douglas street, is awaiting official approval of the list of officers forwarded some days ago to Ottawa, on receipt of which drill will be commenced at once. Already sufficient men for five full companies have been enrolled, and as there is still room for another company the recruiting officers will still have something to occupy them until such time as Ottawa sends the necessary approval.

Owing to the delay nothing definite has been done with respect to the Highland uniforms, although several quotations have been received from Scottish manufacturing firms accustomed to making them. As the companies are fifty strong each, and it is expected that six will be formed, the contract for the Gordon Highlander uniform will be of some value.

It is not the intention of the recruiting officers to accept any applications from men already belonging to any local regiment. Dr. Milne and P. J.
Hiddell, the principal promoters of the scheme, have been apprised by Colonel Roy, D.O.C., that the plans for the new army have been amplified in order to provide the necessary accommodation for the third Victoria regiment, and meanwhile the Douglas street headquarters will be open every Monday and Thursday evening for the swearing in of recruits.

LETTER BOX

Letters for publication in Daily Times must be received at the Times office not later than the day before the day of publication. When received later they will be held over until the following day.
Write unobscured anonymous communications will be published the same and address of every writer of such letters must be given to the editor.

TRUTH ABOUT BALKANS.

To the Editor: I made a statement
in my last letter to the Times that all reports that came from Bulgaria, Austria, Russia and Italy are not reliable, and would like again to state that readers of your paper need not believe those reports until the whole truth comes out, which will be published to the world at large by the international investigation committee at The Hague.
This committee was sent to the Balkan peninsula a few days ago to make investigations and find out the truth, as near as possible, concerning the atrocities
that have been published.

Thanks to Mr. Carnegie for the love and generosity he has shown to humanity by building an international parliament at The Hague for the purpose of settling international affairs, which to my mind will do more good
than the world ever thought possible.

TROUBLE AHEAD.

To the Editor: I warn you there is trouble brewing for our peaceful little city, if once a firm footing is gained in Victoria by militants, or "Dreadnoughts" (a name invented for them
by one who is always nice, if not too silent, when danger lurks around him).
A coal strike in comparison will be but a trifle, for it can be crushed out by law. But nothing has yet been invented to crush the militant Dreadnoughts.
If I might, I would suggest that two policemen should attend the premier and attorney-general with whips, when they are having a quiet game of golf.
What guarantee is there that the Times
will not, during the first panic, throw over its "Groucher" as a sop to the hunger striking wolves, by disclosing
his baptismal name and address?

But it would require more than a "panic" to bring about such a chaotic
state of things between the Times and its correspondent, even when differing in politics. When every editor in the British empire, say but one, approves
of and sanctions anonymous writing,
which the rule is proved that anonymous letters should not be rejected, when under strict supervision.

If there were any editors in the United Kingdom or her colonies that refused to print anonymous letters they should be doubly particular about signed correspondence, especially when fictitious signatures could be easily detected.
There was a specimen of this "irregularity" brought to light some time ago in the Victoria Times, the details of which are too numerous for repetition.
But I will say they reflected no credit upon the editor or his imaginary correspondent, who was unknown at the address given or anywhere else in British Columbia.

AS TO MR. SIVERTZ.

To the Editor: I cannot see where
Mr. Sivertz has improved his position one particle by his second letter. He evades the main issue and tries to make it appear that his action was much simpler and more innocent than it really was. In other words, he quib-bles.

No one would deny him the right to meet with his fellow-citizens and engage publicly in a campaign of education in favor of any reform he thinks to be for the public good. He could do that and still be a law-abiding citizen, true to his oath to be faithful and bear true allegiance to his sovereign.

But that was very far from what he did. The resolution he put to the meeting condemned the action of the Crown in taking steps to suppress a riot. A reign of terror prevailed in the mining towns. Property had been destroyed, homes ravaged, women and children forced to flee for their lives and conceal themselves in the woods without food for days. Instead of sympathizing with the action taken to end such a reign of terror, Mr. Sivertz and his associates publicly condemned it.
They evidently sympathized with the perpetrators of these outrages. It seems to me to be impossible to regard a man who takes such a position as a law-abiding citizen who is faithful to his oath of allegiance. If such men are not at heart anarchists, they are at best ignorant creatures who have not sense enough to appreciate the

Mr. Sivertz seems to think that some one wants to take his job away from him. In this he is greatly mistaken. It might be well for him, how-his fellow-citizens to too great a strain.

NEW RACE TRACK FOR CAPITAL WILL BE READY NEXT SEASON

One Hundred Thousand Dollar Plant to Be Constructed by Victoria Country Club; Plan Athletic Oval, Also

One of the finest racing plants in Canada, costing considerably over one hundred thousand dollars, will be in operation in Victoria next year, according to Secretary George Fraser, of the Victoria Country Club. Plans are now being secured for the laying out of the new track and the club directors have secured a twenty-one year lease on one of the finest farms on the island. There is another site under consideration, also, and because the directors have not decided which they will accept, they are not willing to announce the purchase of the farm in question. Three railroads, however, give plenty of transportation facilities and the best equipped track in the province is looked for.

Foster Horse Breeding.
Coming at a time when the city council will be asked to consider a refusal of a permit for racing on the Exhibition grounds, the announcement of Secretary Fraser is interesting to horse fanciers. The present lease of the Victoria Country Club on the Exhibition track will run out in April, 1914, so that the club wishes to have its new track in full operation for next year.

Not only will the association foster horse breeding by the erection of splendid stables and corrals, but the association will also donate thousands of dollars for races in which "only province-owned horses" can compete. There will also be rich stakes for Dominion-bred animals and in addition to the annual races, the Victoria Country Club plans to hold races every Saturday on its new track.

Athletic Oval.
Provision will also be made so that the track can be used for athletic purposes and a polo club will have the use of the grounds when racing is over. Baseball, lacrosse and football will be provided for and the management expect to make the circuit a mecca for all sports. A magnificent club-house will be erected for the convenience of the members and the lovers of the thoroughbred will find every comfort awaiting them at the new track.

Definite announcement of the site selected will be made public just as soon as property has been secured. The latter, however, will be situated outside of the city and other adjacent municipalities.

About That Race Meet.
To the Sporting Editor of the Times, Victoria.

Sir,—I see it is stated in the Colonist that the Victoria Country Club proposes to race at the Willow this month before the opening of the fall fair. It is further stated that this is in contravention of our lease with the British Columbia Agricultural Association. Please allow me space to state that the meeting of the Victoria Country Club will not begin until the meeting of the British Columbia Agricultural Association (who run the fair) is over. This meeting will be conducted according to law, and if anyone is of the opinion that the law is violated, the directors of the Victoria Country Club can be punished in the courts. As a matter of fact it has been held by the courts that a meeting such as we contemplate is not forbidden by the Miller Act.

I would also like to know why it is that horse racing is so immoral in Victoria, while it is quite harmless in Vancouver? You will remember that the Colonist was one of the chief original promoters of the 60-day meet in 1908, although of recent years the Colonist has attacked the Victoria Country Club on every possible occasion. The owner of the Colonist also was the News-Advertiser in Vancouver. In Vancouver there has been racing regularly every year; this year extending over 70 days. The News-Advertiser not only did not utter a word of protest against this meeting, but gave it valuable publicity by daily printing detailed accounts of the racing. When it is remembered that racing at Victoria is admitted by everyone in a position to know to be on a plane fully equal, if not above, racing in any other part of the northwest, one wonders what the real motive behind this attack is.

Yours truly,
GEO. A. FRASER,
Manager Victoria Country Club,
Victoria, Sept. 6, 1913.

CITY LEAGUE TEAMS MEET NEXT THURSDAY

Bowling will get under way next week and the annual meeting of the City Bowling League has been called for Thursday evening at the Arcade bowling alleys. Competition for the Pit-Rite championship trophy promises to be keener than ever, and with ten teams as the probable entry list in the city league, there should be plenty of good bowling this season. Cash prizes to the value of $100 will be offered by the management of the Arcade alleys. The teams already nominated for this league are the Puget Sound Lumber Company, the Colonial Office, the Colonial Printers, the Deft Barbers and the Walker's Union. It is planned to have the first game played next Monday between the Puget Sound and Colonial Office.

OAK BAY TWELVE GETTING READY

Island Champions Have Splendid Chance for Mann Cup in Coming Series at Vancouver

HOCKEY FAN WANTS LOCAL SEVEN INTACT

Nothing further has been heard of the reported trade of Goldie Progers to the Quebec club, and there is a growing conviction that the yarn was merely a press agent tale from the directors of the Ancient City Club. Lester Patrick will be home about the middle of this month, when Victorians will be able to secure something definite as regards hockey in the Capital this winter.

There are many hockey fans who would like to see last year's team again placed on the ice this winter, intact. The following letter explains itself:

To the Sporting Editor:—Would you kindly give me space in your columns to draw the attention of the fans to the fact that the ice hockey season is fast approaching. I am certain that it is the wish of each and all that the seven men who so brilliantly won the world's championship last season should again be with us. It was the intention at the end of last season to petition Lester Patrick to that effect, but at the last moment was overlooked. I would suggest that the fans hold an early meeting for that purpose before it is too late. Any person who will take the matter up and wants help I will be very pleased to assist.

Yours faithfully,
WALTER J. MCCLURE,
711 Yates street, Victoria.

STILL WINNING.

Regina, Sept. 6.—The Australians had little difficulty in winning their match from Saskatchewan yesterday. The Canadians ran up the respectable score of 83, of which O'Hara, Moore, Jaw, by free hitting, was high with 20. In fielding and bowling, however, the Saskatchewan failed to hold the Cornstalks, who made 278 runs for ten wickets.

Cup Prospects.

Just how the whole matter of dates, etc., and the possession of the cup will result after the two first challenges have had their whirl at it, is hard to predict. There comes a story from the V. A. C. in Vancouver that Armstrong is a professionalized organization of sick welders. This may be right and it may be wrong. Still it does not stand to reason that the Armstrong enthusiasts play the game and are not aware of the rules which govern the Mann cup competition—which as everyone knows, is strictly amateur. However, that is a matter to be fathomed by the B. C. A. U. and it is hoped by that they show haste in bringing the grievance of the V. A. C. men to an immediate decision. Should the decision go against Armstrong, it would materially help Oak Bay, as there would be one less team for the Mann cup holders to meet prior to the Bays. But again, it must be considered that the Young Conservative team of Winnipeg is the strongest the Prairie city

Island Soccer Champions Have Fine Record

MANAGERIAL BOARD OF THE VICTORIA WEST SOCCER CLUB

It is doubtful if there is a soccer club in the entire Dominion that has a more brilliant record than that boasted by the active football organization known to local followers as the Victoria West Soccer Club. This association has practically dominated soccer in the capital for the past four or five years and its followers point with pride to its long list of wins. A complete record of the senior teams is:

- 1908-09, Champions Victoria City League.
- 1909-10, Champions Victoria City League.
- 1910-11, Champions Victoria City League.
- 1911-12, Champions Vancouver Island.
- 1912-13, Champions Victoria City League.
- 1912-13, Champions Vancouver Island.

In addition to this the club has captured several junior and intermediate championships and has become one of the strongest soccer associations on the coast. The green and white teams now hold the Morley, Okell and Garrison cups, and Manager Youson is confident of defending these trophies this year. He will choose his eleven from the following players: J. W. Okell, J. Sherratt, B. McDonald, C. Sedger, J. Robertson, R. Stewart, E. S. Tait, N. McDonald, B. Sedger, J. Pettigrew, R. McKinnon, Stan. Okell, C. Baker, F. Youson, J. Peden, J. Wright, C. W. Kinlock, H. Cowper, L. McDonald, S. Thackeray, W. Prevost.

The organization meeting of the Wests will be held in a few days, when team committees for the coming season will be appointed. Practice dates will also be chosen and the decks cleared for the annual soccer campaign.

YOUNG TWIRLERS REPORT TO BEES

Bobby Steele and Floyd Brown have reported to the Bees, the latter showing an exceptionally fine performance against the Indians yesterday. Bert Delmas will now have a chance to work this youngsters and the Bees should take a decided brace with Steele and Brown in harness. Hay Morse will be back with the club next year and the management look for Morse to make good as a regular. He hit .390 in the twilight circuit and proved an exceptionally fast base runner as well as a good fielder.

Portland has released Harry Thielman, who pitched under the name of Harry Todd.

The Seattle and Portland teams have been idle since Monday, one game having been played. As this is the last trip of the season of the Seattle team to Portland, doubleheaders will be played there on Saturday and Sunday, weather permitting.

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

The Empire Red Sox accept the challenge of the Victoria Hawk team to a return match to be played at the Royal Athletic park; any umpire agreed upon by both teams to officiate the game to be played in two weeks' time.

Pictures of Bayley-Vaise. Boxing Match in Town.—Moving pictures of Bayley-Vaise boxing match held in Vancouver, August 2, are being shown to-day at the Bijou theatre, Johnson street. These pictures show the full 15 rounds. You will be able to draw your own conclusions whether a draw was a fair decision to Bayley or not.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Victoria's Chances for the Mann Cup.

Now that the trustees have accepted the Armstrong challenge for the Mann cup and also awarded dates to the Winnipeg and Oak Bay clubs, it will be interesting to glance over the showing of the respective challengers. The Armstrong team are a heavy aggregation of veterans and many consider them the most formidable aggregation of the three. The Young Conservatives captured the "Teg" title after a hard-fought series, while the Oak Bay twelve had rather an easy time. The latter depend for the better part upon their speed and excellent team work to bring results and if they can stick to this system in the cup games they should win. For one thing, the Oak Bay team are young and filled with ambition and it will not be for want of practice that they will not win with two weeks of practice, they should make a far better showing than many people expect of them.

Crucial Week for the Bees at Tacoma.

Whether or not Victoria will finish in the first division depends largely upon the showing of the Bees against the Tacoma club in the approaching two week series with the Tigers. The Bees have shown more than any other club in their present engagement with Spokane and if they can only clean up McGinnity's crew, they will be in a fair position to step into third place when they go to Vancouver two weeks hence for the final series of the 1913 season. In the meantime Spokane will have tangled with the Seattle club and also the Portland Pippins. They may gain a bunch of points at the expense of the Tillamooks which will bring this team nearer the Bees, but against Portland, Lynch's Larruppers will not find the going so easy. Seattle have another series with Vancouver and the Heavers should boost their percentages in these games. Manager Delmas can make or break his first division aspirations in the next two weeks, but with the Bees hammering the ball hard, they should win by a couple of games in the two week series.

POLO CLUB WILL INCREASE MEMBERSHIP

In order to carry out the programme which has already been outlined, a complete re-organization of the Victoria Polo Club has been planned, and steps will at once be taken to increase the membership of this club. The officers, at a meeting held yesterday afternoon, decided to abandon the trip to Spokane because of lack of funds, but every endeavor will now be directed towards making the championship series at the coming exhibition a big success. Cowchan have also dropped the Spokane trip, but it is stated that this club, together with the Vancouver quartette, will visit the capital for the exhibition journey.

SKIPPER SELECTED.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 6.—Atlantic City, cradle of American yachting and the only place in the country, perhaps, where the youngsters soon after they are able to walk get into sailboats and race one another instead of playing marbles, baseball, etc., has gone yachting mad. Recent developments indicate that Captain George B. Clark, who sails a sixty-foot sloop at the inlet, will be selected to defend the cup against the Lipton Invader in 1914.

CANCELS MATCH.

Indianapolis, Sept. 6.—Jack Dillon, claimant of the middleweight championship, who was to have fought Frank Mantell at Sacramento September 17, and "Kid" George at Salt Lake City September 23, has cancelled the matches on orders from his doctor. About a month ago Dillon was injured in an automobile accident, and his doctor declined to allow him to fight until he was sure of his complete recovery.

A little oversight.

By executive order the President has made it a misdemeanor for an aviator to fly over the Panama canal. A penalty of $1,000 fine may be imposed. The object of this order is to protect the canal from injury by aviators who might wish to drop bombs into it. An enemy who might wish to destroy the canal probably would think twice before doing it if he understood that he might be fined $1,000 before he flew over the canal. WOMAN'S MOST SUCCESSFUL MEDICINE

Known All Over The World
—Known Only For The Good It Has Done.

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or received so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In nearly every community you will find women who have been restored to health by this famous medicine. Almost every woman you meet knows of the great good it has been doing among suffering women for the past 30 years.

Fox Creek, N. B.—"I have always had pains in the abdomen and a weak, nervous system, and often after meals a soreness in my stomach. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better and I can work with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers."—Mrs. WILLIAM S. BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N. B.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, many of whom state that it has saved them from surgical operations.

being the officiating minister. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are making their residence at Oak Bay.

THE HUMAN PROCESSION

Miss Jane Addams, the best-known and most loved woman in America, will celebrate her fifty-third birthday to-day. This great friend of the friendless and her home for the homeless, Hull House in Chicago, are known and honored all over the civilized world. Like Thomas Paine, she can say, "The world is my country, to do good my religion. Race nor religion, color nor creed, have ever limited her benefactions. She belongs to 'that great church which holds the world within its star-lit aisles, that claims the great and good of every race and clime, that finds with joy the glint of gold in every creed, and seeks to develop the germ of good in every soul.'"

The little town of Cedarville, Ill., finds its chief claim to fame in that it was the birthplace of Jane Addams. She graduated from Rockford College, and her early ambition was to become a physician. Ill health forced her to abandon this project, and she spent two years in European travel, investigating the various great institutions for social service. "Before I had returned to America," she has written, "I had discovered that there are other genuine reasons for living among the poor than that of practicing medicine upon them, and my brief foray into the profession was never resumed, having been undertaken from the first merely as a means to an end." It was twenty-four years ago that Miss Addams found her life work by opening Hull House in the Windy City. The famous philanthropist is a firm believer in woman's suffrage and was one of the delegates to the international congress held recently in Budapest. She does not believe in the militant methods of Mrs. Pankhurst. She predicts that within two or three years the United States will be solid for suffrage. "By that time," she declares, "American suffragists will have won their fight, and will have won it without dangerous methods."

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Archibald Hunter, who recently vacated the governor-generalship of Gibraltar, was born fifty-seven years ago to-day, and has had a long and brilliant military career in Egypt, South Africa and India. Numerous scars and wounds, as well as many medals, testify to his gallantry. A tactless speech, it has been alleged, caused his retirement as commander of "The Rock." Sir Archibald likened the town of Gibraltar to "the Augean stables," and threatened a press censorship.

Arthur Train, who was one of the leaders in the founding of the Authors' League of America, is a Bostonian by birth and will pass his thirty-eighth birthday to-day. He was formerly a millionaire in his native city and his wide legal experience has been of great assistance in the launching of the authors' union, which seeks to secure adequate copyright protection for all authors in the literary, dramatic and musical fields. Mr. Train's first book, "McAlister and His Double," was published eight years ago, and immediately established his literary reputation.

SCRAP BOOK.

Haughty Brazilians Celebrate the Festival of Independence.

Brazilians will begin to-day the celebration of their independence day, and the festivities will continue through Sunday. The Brazilian brand of freedom, which dates from September 7, 1822, is peculiar to that country and includes a disregard for the laws of convention and Mother Grundy that would turn Anthony Comstock's hair white in an hour. To the average Brazilian—who is of mixed Portuguese, negro or Indian blood, with African predominating—liberty means license in moral matters. Paris is naughty, says the City of Light at its gayest would be considered tame by those accustomed to the highly-spiced pleasures of Rio de Janeiro.

This spirit of disregard for the conventions naturally reaches its height on holidays, and more especially on independence day. Brazilians are passionately fond of the theatre, and the special holiday performances are an important part of the celebration. In some of the playhouses of Rio and other modern Brazilian cities performance may be witnessed to-day that for frankness would make anything ever witnessed on a Parisian stage seem prudish and proper by comparison.

The Estados Unidos do Brasil—the United States of Brazil—dates from 1889, but Brazil has been an independent country ever since 1532, when the rule of Portugal was overthrown, and the nation was constituted an independent empire. Dom Pedro, who had been the Portuguese regent, was the first emperor, and was succeeded by his son, Dom Pedro II., who was forced to abdicate after the bloodless revolution of 1889. Brazil, which now supplies the world with coffee, has tremendous undeveloped resources, and seems destined in time to become one of the world's richest countries.

ON BEING TRUE.

Let prayer be brief, whenever we plead. For youth and age have but one need. Beneath the sunlit blue: 'Tis not that we, with grace, may die. Nor dying find a heaven on high. But only as the days go by. Each day we may be true.

True to ourself, our body, mind, And spirit, wondrously combined. To conscience feeblest sound; And true to each ideal sublime, They linger on the hills of time, And linger beckons us to climb—And true to those around.

DUDLEY ANDERSON.
Victoria, B. C., 1913.

The consumption of tobacco and alcohol in Canada has increased during 1912 as follows: Spirits, 1,122 gallons per capita, compared with 1,209 in 1911; beer, 1,065 gallons, as against 839 gallons; wine, 8.21 as against 6.14; and tobacco, 3,181 pounds, against 3,075 pounds, the latter figures including cigarettes.

FREE TRIAL TREATMENT MAY CURE YOU

Dear Mrs. Carrall—I feel so very much better after using the 10 days' treatment of ORANGE LILY you were kind enough to send, that I will not acquire any more. In fact, I feel entirely well, and it is now a month since I stopped using the treatment.

Similar letters to the above are not infrequent, though, of course, such cases are not of long standing. Most women who have suffered for any length of time will require to use ORANGE LILY longer than the Trial Treatment in order to effect a complete cure, but in every case they will be perceptibly benefited. Further, the benefit will be permanent whether they continue to use ORANGE LILY or not. It is not taken internally, and does not contain any alcohol or other stimulant. It is an applied treatment, and acts directly on the suffering organs. In all cases of women's disorders, these organs are congested to a greater or less extent, and the result is always the same, a step towards better health, and complete cure.

In order that every suffering woman may prove its good qualities, I will send enough of ORANGE LILY for 10 days' treatment, absolutely free of charge. I will send me her address: Mrs. FRANK E. CURRALL, WINDSOR, ONT.

Facsimile of stamp on genuine "Cravenette" Showerproofed Goods

Regd.

If You Are Planning A New Spring Coat

or Suit or Skirt, be sure to have it of "Cravenette" (Regd.) Showerproofed Cloth.

"Cravenette" (Regd.) Showerproofed fabrics have two advantages possessed by no other cloth.

First—they are absolutely showerproof, proofed by the wonderful "Cravenette" process.

Second—they are light and porous, allowing the air to circulate freely, yet keeping the inner clothing dry on very wet days.

"Cravenette" (Regd.) Showerproofed garments come in a large variety of attractive patterns and color schemes, suitable for skirts, jackets and coats.

You can get genuine "Cravenette" (Regd.) Showerproofed garments in the newest styles for men, women and children—or you can buy the showerproofed cloth and have garments made at a tailor's.

All genuine "Cravenette" (Regd.) Showerproofed garments and cloth bear the trademark shown above. Look for it whenever you buy.

EXTRACT FROM "BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL" March 22, 1907.

"A Most Valuable Food"

At a time when the preparation of artificial foodstuffs is receiving more attention than ever before, and when new forms of easily assimilable food are being brought to the notice of the medical profession, it is desirable that some of the older forms of administering natural fats should not be lost sight of. Among natural fats, being palatable, reliable, in fact, that children are more likely to need restraining from excess than any persuading to take it. This BUTTER SCOTCH is stated to contain 81 per cent. of fat and 73 per cent. of sugar, and the results of an analysis which we have made recently of a specimen substantially confirm these figures; further chemical examination of the fat extracted showed it to be equalling butter fat. This confection can therefore be recommended, not only as a harmless aliment, but also as a very useful addition to the diet in suitable cases. In all the Principal candy stores in Victoria.

Library Books

The following new books have been received at the library during the past week:

PHILOSOPHY.

Abbott, Ernest Hamlin—On the training of parents. Popular, social and sympathetic, and with reliable advice to parents and teachers. Some of the chapters are: Spanning and habit; the will and the way; by rule of wit; peace at a price, etc. 178-Alton.

Alger, George William—Moral overstrain. Vigorous essays dealing with some moral aspects of modern business and law. As: Criminal law reform; the literature of exposure; unpublished commercial crime. 174-A390.

Dresser, Horatio Willis—Human efficiency, a psychological study of modern problems. A psychological study of modern problems which is a practical contribution to the science of human nature. Nothing particularly new in the treatment, but interesting especially in its discussion and efficiency methods. 131-177.

Hall, Granville Stanley—Youth, its education, regimen and hygiene. An abridgment of the author's "The Education of Youth," which will be of great assistance to parents and teachers in the problems of how best to deal with either child or youth. 130-B177.

RELIGION.

Barry, William—Papacy and modern times: a political sketch. One of the Home University Library of Political Science, complete in historical outline and with psychological aspect carefully presented. 132-133.

Tyrell, George—Christianity at the cross-roads. Defines the modernism of the Roman Catholic church, and points out the difference from liberal Protestantism. By one of the ablest and most candid and courageous of modern theologians. 135-136.

SOCIOLOGY.

Adams, John—Evolution of educational theory. Historical chapters particularly valuable, with an excellent concluding section on the educational outlook. 370-A212.

Bastable, Charles Francis—Public finance. Technical and scholarly. Goes fully into the subject of taxation, and devotes a section to the budget. 336-337.

Brockbridge, Sophronia P. and Abbott, Edith—Delinquent child and the home. A study of conditions in one district only, but in its thoroughness and in its analysis of practical value to all probation officers, social workers and students of juvenile problems. 364-365.

Butler, Elizabeth Beardsley—Saleswomen in mercantile stores. A report on a study of the mercantile stores of Baltimore in 1909. But though specified in treatment, will be suggestive in connection with study of conditions in any city. 331-4-1909.

Gesell, Arnold L. and Gesell, Beatrice C.—Normal child and primary education. Gives a chapter on the Montessori method and its place in education. 372-G38.

USEFUL ARTS.

Hawkins, Nehemiah—Aids to engineers' examinations prepared for applicants of all grades with questions and answers. 621-17-H398.

Maynard, Samuel Taylor—Small country places. Practical information on building the house, decorating the grounds, fruit growing, market gardening, poultry keeping and dairying. Applies especially to eastern, but suggestive anywhere. 630-M478m.

FINE ARTS.

Davidson, T. Ruffin—Arts connected with building: lectures on craftsmanship and design. Well illustrated; chapters on woodwork, design, house and church furniture; decorative plaster work; external lead work; decorative iron work. Each chapter by a different author. 729-124.

LITERATURE.

Masefield, John—Everlasting mercy. 1911. A powerful tale in verse, vivid and human, showing a keen understanding of all sorts and conditions of men, and a marked sympathy for the underdog and wild things of life. 813-M35ev.

Wilde, Oscar—Poems. Authorized edition. 812-W57.

TRAVEL.

Cartwright, Julia—Pilgrim's way from Winchester to Canterbury. An illustrated book of English travel, following the way trodden by the pilgrims and the Middle Ages through the South of England to the shrine of St. Thomas of Canterbury. 814-C32p.

HISTORY.

Baker, Captain B. Granville—Passing of the Turkish empire in Europe. A 1913 book, going into the question of Turkey as it is to-day. 449-B19p.

James, Lionel—With the conquered Turk. The official correspondent of the London Times relates the personal adventures of himself and several brother newspapermen in the field with the Turkish forces. Fresh, entertaining and vivid, but more about the mishaps of correspondents than about war operations. 449-B-128.

FICTION.

Battersby, M. F. P.—Silence of men. A candid confession of a button, the Mordant, Eleanor La of the Ranges, Richards, Grant—Cavities.

Vane, George—Love dream. Watson, John—Days of Auld Langsyne. Young, F. E. Mills—Myrtle Calhoun, I. D. B.

FATAL FASCINATION.

A Viennese tailor was so fascinated by a court functionary that he could not make up his mind to part with the garment. He passed hours daily before the mirror, admiring the elegant fit, until his mind gave way to lunacy. He finally had to be committed to an asylum, whether he was enticed, says a correspondent, on pretext of his being invited to attend a levee in his court dress.

LETTER FROM LONDON

Pithy Comment on Passing Events in United Kingdom

By ARTHUR SCAIFE, J. P.

L'Affaire du Collier.
The missing pearl necklace and the extraordinary circumstances under which it disappeared still fills pages in the daily press, though very little progress seems to have been made towards its discovery. There has been a constant coming and going between Scotland Yard and the Garde de Paris, the former maintaining that the thief was to be found on the other side of the channel, the latter that full responsibility lay with London. Meanwhile we get "no forrard." M. Salomon sticks to the story he has always told, viz: that he placed the $125,000 worth of pearls in the box and posted it on the afternoon of July 15 to the address of Mr. Meyer in London. He knows no more. Both sender and addressee are above suspicion, being wholesale jewellers of unquestioned standing and repute. For all that each, as is perhaps only natural, has been subjected to the most cruel examination on the part of the Paris police, whose methods as we all know are exactly the contrary of our own in the investigation of crime. It would almost seem sometimes as if they proceeded solely by process of induction, and would stop at nothing in order to make facts fit in with a preconceived theory. So far they have been quite unable to incriminate M. Salomon, who complains that the agonies he has been subjected to are quite indescribable. It must be borne in mind that both British and French postal authorities have a paramount interest in shielding their subordinates as far as they can. Proof that a registered package had been opened in transit and the contents stolen would be a nasty knock from which it would take them some long time to discover. At all costs the public belief in the entire trustworthiness and reliability of the registered mails must be fostered. Paris takes the position that the theft was impossible while the package was in the charge of the French post office, but this attitude is somewhat hard to reconcile with the fact that eighteen months ago a similar number of registered packages were rifled on an express train between the capital and the south of France. All things considered, it seems more than probable that the culprit was a postal employee, though whether English or French remains—perhaps never—to be seen.

Snap Division.

Oh! this party press. According to the Tory papers the members of the cabinet are entirely prostrate owing to "an attack of nerves" induced by fears of a snap division which may at any moment be sprung upon them by their vigilant opponents. According to the Liberal press, they were never more fit in their lives, and judging by the appearance of those amongst them whom I have lately been privileged to see in the flesh I sound to say that they present no signs of immediate dissolution, whether physical or political. The truth is that the government is quite as much alive to the dangers of sharp-shooting as the opposition, and though Lord Murray was the best chief whip we have had for years, his successor is not much more likely to be caught napping than the proverbial weasel is to be surprised asleep. By the way, has Mr. Hilaire Belloc's book, "The Party System," found its way to the shelves of your library? If it has and you have read it you will probably agree with me that a more powerful condemnation of the manner in which parliament is run can hardly be conceived. But, as the much married man observed about matrimony, "it's an infernal nuisance, but what the deuce do you propose to put in its place?"

VARICOSE VEINS ABOVE ANKLE

Broke Into Sore, Itched and Burned So Badly Could Scarcely Sleep, Red and Inflamed, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Entirely Cured.

217 Greenwood Ave., Toronto, Ontario.—"My trouble was varicose veins above my ankle. It broke into a sore which was painful. The sore itched and burned so badly that I could scarcely sleep. The skin around it was red and inflamed. I could not wear a shoe for eight weeks. I tried several ointments but they didn't seem to do it any good. Then I was recommended to use Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed with the Cuticura Soap and put a little Cuticura Ointment on and they gave the greatest relief. In a few weeks the sore was entirely cured." (Signed) Mrs. MacGregor, Feb. 21, 1912.

SALT RHEUM ON BABY'S HEAD

Woodstock, Vermont Co., N. B.—"My baby was about three weeks old when he had salt rheum on his head and forehead. It began in a little red rash, which came on his head and down over his forehead and formed a hard, brown crust. It looked terrible, and it must have bothered him quite a lot, as he would not sleep. I used to wash him with the Cuticura Soap and hot water and put the Cuticura Ointment on, and in three weeks his head and forehead were clear. I can't speak too highly of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. George B. Allen, Nov. 18, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers everywhere. A single set is often sufficient. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post card: Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 54D, Boston, U. S. A.

and I will take chances on prosecution. Last May the ruling passion strong as—ay! stronger in age than it even was on the banks of Kokallah or Cowichan twenty years ago, lured me to North Wales in pursuit of the lustrous but elusive trout. Nothing in the way of scenery which I have yet seen, and I have wandered far afield, is more exquisite after its kind than that of Montgomeryshire in the neighborhood of Lake Vyrnwy, one of the many man-made reservoirs of the city of Liverpool, some ninety miles distant. (A huge dam was erected across the mouth of a valley five miles long by three-quarters of a mile broad. The work, a triumph of engineering skill, took twenty years to complete and the lake itself over twelve months to fill, a church and an entire building being submerged in the operation). Sport proved poor, for the weather of course was execrable (it usually is), but the Muse had to have her say as the following verses show.

I venture to insert them here, not on account of their merit, but merely as an indication that I still occasionally "burst into song" in humble and ineffectual emulation of my old friend the British Columbia bard, whose admirable effusions all too rarely adorn the ponderous pages of the Spectator.

LAKE VYRNWY.

Man made thee, Vyrnwy, His prophetic brain Imag'd the concept of thy lake-to-be;
Mean'd the strength of stream, the fall
Of rain.
While yet thy fore-doom'd vale slept Tranquilly;
Built him a doughty dam to stem the flow
Of waters garner'd by an hundred hills,
From floods in spring-tide, born of winter's Snow,
That seek the sea in form of countless Rills,
Nor deem'd it sacrilegious to submerge
A consecrated fane, full fathoms deep,
To bury home and hamlet 'neath the Surge.

That greater numbers might advantage
Reap,
So could it seem that village life must Drown
To meet imperious need of mighty town.
Man made thee, Vyrnwy, and he made Thee fair,
On thee his all too devastating hand
Was lightly laid. He did not strip thee Bare,
But set himself to beautify the land.
He gave thy verdant slopes with fragrant Trees,
Scatter'd in clusters here and there About,
To rustle in thine ever-stirring breeze.

He stock'd thy waters with a myriad
Of fishes, and he gave thee a magic ring,
Studding the surface o'er with magic rings,
Adorn'd of fishermen the fertile source
Of aspiration those eternal springs
In Andie's breast. He deck'd thy Shores with corn, and made the corn the Bloom
And made the corn the bloom
To vie in glory with thy golden broom.

My boatman, Owen, was a typical Welshman, small but sturdily built, and the soul of good humor; a staunch nonconformist and stauncher still adherent of Lloyd George. He walked four miles in the evening after his work, which consisted of pulling a heavy boat all over the lake all day long, and four miles back—often through a deluge of rain—to attend choral practice. Did he not represent his village at the Eisteddfod, and were not his honour and reputation at stake?
I may be a few d's short in portrayal of that awful word, but, as I dare say you know, it represents an institution
dear to the heart of a Welshman, and all costs and conditions of things in the matter of national song. Welsh orthography is as unfathomable as Welsh pronunciation, what looks like plum pudding sounds like pork pie.
Friend Owen, who sang tenor like a bird, was keen as a razor on coming out first and dire was his disappointment
when the competition was decided against him. Had he won, his share of the prize money, plus of course untold honors and glory, would have been a sovereign, no extraordinary compensation for a daily tramp of eight miles during three weeks' rehearsal. But the fame attendant upon gaining first place at the Eisteddfod and being able for a whole year to glow triumphant over countless rival choirs is beyond the powers of a Sassenach to appreciate.
All Welshmen sing will, but harmony
as one comes west, like the lost chord,
seems to tremble away into silence
and the rustics in the southern counties of England have no note of music in their composition. Their voices are as the squeak of a creaking cart wheel,
the squeak of a raucous crow.

Owen earned eighteen shillings a week when time was good, plus gratifying the season from fishing cranks
who requisitioned his boating services,
but the whole year round he averaged no more than fifteen, out of which he maintained an invalid (with the accent on the second syllable) father, an invariably cheerful demeanor throughout the week, and a remarkably smart suit of clothes on Sundays. Marvel of marvels, shade of domestic economy!
How is it done? Judging by the attendance at the village church, where the service was conducted by an octo-genarian parson and totally unintelligible clergyman, the demand for Welsh disestablishment in that particular locality at any rate would seem to be well-founded. A congregation of nine all told, six women three men. The chapel, per contra, was cramped and the singing worth going miles to hear. Never have I heard more musical or better modulated rendering of familiar hymn tunes.

I took long walks in the country
during my stay, and the main reflection borne in on me assumed this form:
"What a sparsely populated place!
Where are the people?" Whenever one got to the top of a hill, which was often, the difficulty was to see a house.
Here and there—at long, very long intervals, as the eye travelled over miles after miles of gorse covered moor, or thickly wooded slope or vast expanse
of undulating pasture land, a thin

column of smoke betrayed the existence of a farm or laborer's cottage.
Not a human being in sight, unless that speck in the distance were shepherd or cow-man. On the other hand, fluff and feathers met one at every turn. Rabbits and hares, partridges and pheasants, ran or rose in every direction. Here then was the key to the mystery. Those hard acres capable of supporting a large rural population were they only get-at-able for cultivation on reasonable terms
are in private and monopolistic hands,
"strictly preserved" for sporting purposes, owned by an absentee landlord who, except for the term of his annual "shoot," sets no foot thereon, and thinks more of the birds he can kill than of the lives he might help to maintain.

The only soul I met on my rambles
was a gamekeeper who in civilly passing the time of day remarked that it was likely to be a grand year for "the partridges." The young birds were strong on the wing despite the fact I could not help wondering whether it was going to be a grand year in those parts for human birds, and how many young-ones would be strong on the wing for Canada and other climes. The snake in the grass of our rural classes is only scotched, it is now killed by emigration. But the remedy is not all either out of sight. To quote the prime minister: "Wait and see" the effect of the "land valuation" still slowly proceeding!

HEAVY DRINKER CURED.

Samaria Cured Him and He Helps Others.

A man who has been released from

Samaria prescription is tasteless and odorless, and dissolves instantly in tea or coffee or can be mixed with food. It can be given "with or without the patient's knowledge. It removes the craving for drink, builds up the system and restores the nerves. Drink becomes distasteful and even nauseous.
Drink is a disease not a crime. One drink of whiskey always invites another. The inflamed nerves and stomach create a craving that must either be satisfied by more whiskey or removed by scientific treatment like Sa-

FEDERAL TROOP TRAINS LOADED WITH PROVISIONS

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 6.—Six federal trains are en route to Juarez from Chihuahua to take $200,000 worth of provisions to the Chihuahua federal garrison.

The provisions were ordered from El Paso merchants by telegraph yesterday and will be loaded immediately on the arrival of the trains so that they can return to Chihuahua without delay.

General Francisco Castro, with 1,000
federal troops, is acting as the trains' convoy. The trains are due to arrive in Juarez to-morrow morning.

BEWARE YOUNG MAN

It's the Little Dandruff Germs That Are Causing Your Hair to Thin Out

Parisian Sage Stops Falling Hair and Does Not Contain Poisonous Lead or Dyes

The clever young man of to-day doesn't take any chances on losing his hair. A man who is baldheaded at 30 looks like 45, and is placed at a disad-vantage when seeking employment.

If you have dandruff it means down near the roots of your hair an army of dandruff germs are attacking the hair root and destroying its vitality.

Then, hair falls
out; grows thin
and is replaced by suits. Young man: put your faith in delightful PARISIAN SAGE. It will

MONROE DOCTRINE AFFECTS JAPANESE

How Japanese Papers View American Position in Mexico

The latest American interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine continues to elicit attention in the Japanese exchanges to hand on the Sanuki Maru. The Tokio Asahi among others observes that the Americans brandish the Doctrine against Japanese immigration in Mexico
not for the sake of the Doctrine itself,
but because they want to prevent Japan's future activity in that country in view of the strong Mexican pro-Japanese movement. Last summer when a rumor concerning the lease of Magdalena Bay by some Japanese was afloat,
the foreign affairs committee of the American senate conducted investigations which resulted in the finding that the rumor was entirely groundless. Yet the whole upper house, with the exception of only four senators, passed the resolution subsequently introduced that no point of strategic importance on the American continent should be placed at the disposal of any company connected with a foreign government.
Even at that time, however, the question did not affect Japanese immigration to Mexico. How is it, then, that America should at this moment arbitrarily expand the meaning of the Monroe Doctrine to such an extent as to make it touch the immigration question? As hardly needs pointing out, objects that Japan has in view in approaching the continent of America.
Truth to tell, being unable as things are now to attend satisfactorily even to the political commotion in Asia, Japan can scarcely afford to entertain any ambitions concerning the continent across the Pacific.

No Intention.

Inasmuch as the fact is clear that Japan has never for a moment in-templated the establishment of an immigration company of a semi-political nature, in the existence of which the Americans pretended to believe, it appears that they refer to the Monroe Doctrine for the sole purpose of preventing a further increase of Japanese immigrants in Mexico. In view of the possible restriction they themselves
may have to place on their own immigration, it is not surprising that they do so. But if such be the case, why do they remain unconcerned towards Germany, who has already dispatched well nigh four hundred thousand immigrants to Brazil since the declaration of the Monroe Doctrine? Viewed from every standpoint, it is not only against diplomatic etiquette, but the height of buffoonery for any third party to call for restriction when one country is about to dispatch immigrants to another by mutual agreement. Certainly the motion introduced in the House of Representatives, against Japanese emigration to Mexico, must be an entirely unnecessary and, in some respects, meaningless proposition.

The Nikkei declares that America has got a very convenient pretext in the form of the Monroe Doctrine for interference in the affairs of others.
The Doctrine, however, is, in its very nature, destined to become a dead letter in the eyes of the powers, in view of its abuse by England. It has now almost assumed the complexion of imperialism, and can no longer command
the esteem of the powers, inasmuch as its significance has become empty on account of America's interference, in spite of it, in the Moroccan affair, the Jewish question (in Russia), the Manchurian question and the situation in China. The Monroe Doctrine is in effect an insult to the different countries of the American continent. Canada is a British possession, while all the republic of South and Central America are absolutely independent Latin countries. They are in no way obliged to accept American dominion. The Monroe Doctrine, in this sense, is destined to become a dead letter from within. In short the Monroe Doctrine is no better than a creed of America's own. She may alter its meaning or expand its scope as she pleases, but it rests entirely with the powers, including all the Latin American republics, whether they recognize the Doctrine or not.

How Electricity Will Strengthen And Cure You

We Call Our Invention Electro-Vigor

ELECTRO-VIGOR is not like the electric belts you know about. It is a dry cell battery and does not need to be charged. It generates its own power constantly and all you have to do is to put it on when you go to bed and turn on the current. All night long, while you sleep, this engine pumps electric life into your nerves, muscles and vitals.

Electro-Vigor does wonders in a few applications. It arouses all the dormant energies, develops muscular and nerve life, and restores the feeling of youth, courage and vigor. It makes perfect men of the weakest, puniest specimen of half men.

Dear Sirs,—I have been wearing your Electro-Vigor nearly every night for the last month and am much stronger and greatly improved in every way. Yours truly, LOUIS MILLER.

1019 Third St., E., Calgary, Alta.

The reason any organ fails to do its work is because it lacks strength. If there was any nourishment in drugs they might bring about a healthy change, but you know there is not. Drugs are drugs, stimulants, narcotics, antidotes, poisons, not food. Food is needed to build up new energy.

Electricity in nerve food, nerve life. It soaks into your nerves, muscles and vitals. Just like water soaks into a sponge. It warms and strengthens the part which drugs can not reach.

After twenty years of study and experiment, we have brought to a state of perfection the greatest electric body appliance of the age—one that will pour a soothing, glowing warmth into the body for hours, without even a chance of blistering the skin. The exhilarating sensation is felt without stinging or burn, and we have perfected it with a regulating device which makes the current strong or mild at will.

Dear Sirs,—I now take the pleasure of thanking you for the benefits that I have received from the wearing of your Electro-Vigor. It has built up and strengthened my entire system. I feel quite a new man and able to do a hard day's work now, without having that tired feeling I used to have. The asthma cough that I have had for more than two years is now completely cured. All thanks are due to you for recommending me to use your Electro-Vigor battery, which proved to be a quick and sure cure for me. I shall be pleased to recommend it to all who are suffering from coughs, colds and weakness the same as I was.

Yours sincerely, A. G. GREGORY.

COMPANY TO BUY RITZ

A company is being organized to take over the Ritz hotel which was recently bought by H. Maynard at public auction for $30,000. The hotel was at that time heavily indebted to the Silver Spring Brewery, of which Mr. Maynard is president, and the purchase by him was to protect the interest of the Brewery Company in the sale. The brewery, however, has no intention of continuing to run the Ritz, as is evidenced by the fact that at Wednesday's meeting of the license commissioners, an application will be made only for a continuation of the temporary permit not for a permanent license.

Several others matters of moment are slated for the commissioners' meeting Wednesday afternoon in the police court room at the city hall, but it is expected that they will be adjourned.

PRaises Highway SYSTEM IN FRANCE

This Continent May Learn Much From Western Europe Says Massachusetts Man

Lewis R. Spence, of Massachusetts, former president of the American Automobile Association, before the second Federal Aid Good Roads convention recently held by that organization, suggested that if France, with about four times the area and population of the state of New York, can adequately and economically provide and maintain from a centralized source a national roads system of 24,000 miles, it is reasonable to contend that the same thing can be accomplished for the whole United States.

National Roads. "France has admittedly the best road system so far devised," continued Mr. Spence, "and its national roads constitute about 65 per cent of the 265,000 miles of highways in the whole country."

"The national roads, maintained entirely by the government, are constructed forty-two feet wide between ditches, and lead from the capital to principal cities, ports and commercial centres, and between principal cities. With the departmental or state roads, and commercial roads of different classes, the national government has nothing to do except to determine their width, which is fixed by general laws according to their classification."

"The United States has two and a half times the population of France, and six times the road mileage. To balance this difference, a series of national roads which would connect our capitals and principal cities would amount to about 24 per cent of the 265,000 miles of roads in this country as compared with the 65 per cent in France; bringing the mileage of national roads per person in the United States about the same as in France."

"With our enormous resources awaiting development by the extension of our road systems, there seems no reason why we should not proceed with the work of building national roads. National road building did not ruin France; it made France great."

No Political Bureau. "The idea of building up a political machine out of a road construction bureau does not deserve consideration. In all of the important governmental work being carried on it seems the policy of all parties to see that it is conducted economically and honestly, whatever party chances to be in power. A fair instance of that is the valuation of the railways in the country in whose service civil service examinations will soon be held for the selection of several thousand civil and mechanical engineers."

Forand Borda, leading French engineer, writing for the third international road congress, in session last week in London, says: "The national roads, which connect the capital to the frontiers and to the large towns, or else form a connecting link between the more densely populated centres, are of the greatest interest to the country as a whole, not only from an economic point of view, but also from a strategic one, as assuring communication between points at long distances apart. It is therefore essential that their general trend, general plan and width should be settled unfettered by local influences."

ARRANGING SHOW

Seattle Officials Expect to Have Extensive Exhibition at King County Fair.

Manager William I. Fitzgerald, who is now making reservations for the Seattle automobile show at the King county fair in the first few days of September, which will be the first representative gathering of 1914 models in the Northwest, announces that he has allotted more than three-fourths of the space the fair grounds committee would allow him and that he expects to be entirely booked up very soon.

Had it not been for the fact that some of the dealers who wished to enter the show were a little slow in getting information from their factories as to the exact date of the arrival of their 1914 models, all of the spaces would have been disposed of long before this. Practically every dealer who will receive his 1914 car before this event will exhibit, as it will be his first opportunity to offer his model in comparison with others.

The gathering will be a truly representative one, cars of a wide range of price being booked for space. Besides the cars, Manager Fitzgerald has reserved spaces for one fire man, one oil man, one accessory house and one insurance firm.

He has also consented to the requests of a number of truck dealers, who consider this a very desirable event in which to show their line, to allot a space or two for truck exhibits. The management of the fair has assured an attendance of more than 40,000 for the week.

A fine brass wire mesh placed over the air inlet of the carburetor and breather pipes will keep out a large portion of grit and dirt.

CAR HELPED RECORD

J. H. Mears Completed Round the World Trip in Burst of Speed.

Ending a flying trip around the world faster than anybody ever traveled before, John Henry Mears, who came through here on July 7 on the Empress of Russia, made his final dash to New York in a high-powered six-cylinder car.

With all speed regulations suspended, Mears was driven at 60 miles an hour from the Grand Central station to the finishing line. Warning signals of various descriptions sounded continuously and apprised crowds along the way of the approach of the globe-circling champion, who made the journey in 35 days, as against the former best record by Jaeger-Schmidt of 33 days.

"I thought I had experienced all the thrills known," said Mears, "but this idea of going at breakneck speed through the streets of New York was a brand new one."

The route taken by the car was from Vanderbilt avenue and Forty-second street across to Broadway, thence to Chambers street and Park row, where the trip was officially terminated.

Mears arrived at the Grand Central station at 10:10 p.m., and it was but four minutes before he was at his journey's end.

INCREASE IN ENGLAND.

Number of Commercial Cars Grew From 9,195 in 1911 to 15,296 in 1912.

The use of commercial motor vehicles is gradually becoming more extensive in England, though the increase is not so rapid as in the case of pleasure cars. The total number of pleasure cars registered in the United Kingdom at the end of 1912 was 120,000, and the number of commercial cars 9,195, of which 3,067 were in London alone. At the close of 1912 the latter number had increased to 15,296.

The number of heavy-duty commercial vehicles and steam and road locomotives working in 1912 was 6 per cent of the total number of commercial vehicles, and the proportion was lowered to 51 per cent in 1912.

USED KEROSENE ON LONG MOTOR JOURNEY

Automobile Designer Tells of Success He Had With Fuel; Cheaper Than Gasoline

R. P. Henderson, motor car designer, was a visitor in Seattle recently on route back to Indiana, after having driven one of the cars in the recent manufacturers' tour to the Pacific coast. He divulged some important discoveries resulting from the use of kerosene for fuel instead of gasoline in two cars which made the 4,015-mile trip from Indianapolis to Los Angeles, says the Seattle Times.

Cost Per Passenger.

Each car carried five passengers, the cost per passenger for fuel being $5.50 each for the 4,015 miles, or about one-fifth of the railroad excursion rate to California. In the De Luxe model, 220 gallons of kerosene were used. The cost of the fuel along the route ranged from 7 cents to about 13 cents a gallon.

Mr. Henderson found that kerosene increased the motor's efficiency. This he discovered was due to the fact that the new fuel has a higher heat unit than gasoline. The explosive power, however, is not greater. It took less kerosene vapor than gasoline in the cylinders. No carbon developed in the motor, but on the contrary the new fuel prevented the forming of carbon deposits.

The trip with kerosene as fuel was vital to the automobile industry, by reason of the fact that gasoline had mounted high in price, and engineers were puzzled as to the outcome. It kept many people from enjoying the fresh air and pleasure to be gained from motoring. Some manufacturers saw harm to the industry. Gasoline ranges in price the country over from 20 to 40 cents a gallon.

Effect on Travel.

Mr. Henderson said: "Edward Payson Weston is said to have worn out fully 20 pairs of shoes in his coast-to-coast trip five years ago. That was not less than $100 expenses. So at $5.50 a passenger for fuel, it is cheaper to drive an automobile to the coast than it is to walk or travel on a railroad. In one section we drove 25 miles in second gear owing to road conditions. That meant the motor was revolving about three times as fast as on high gear, yet at this tremendous speed, the kerosene was turned into vapor just as effectively as at slower speed. The problem of kerosene as a fuel previous to our success in higher altitudes, where the average motor car loses 2 per cent of its power for every 1,000 feet upward it travels, our cars showed no loss of power whatever. At 12,000 feet the average car loses 25 per cent of its power. We have driven in high altitudes before and have measured power-loss accurately, but we were surprised to find no such occurrence on this occasion."

HAS 65,000 MEMBERS

Over 22,000 Joined Automobile Association and Motor Union, England, Last Year.

The annual meeting of the Automobile Association and Motor Union was held recently in London, Eng., under the presidency of Charles Jarrott.

In his speech moving the adoption of the report, Mr. Jarrott stated that the membership exceeded 65,000, over 22,000 members having joined during the past year, as against 15,000 in the preceding year. He said that the association together with the Cyclists' Touring Club had invited the Ligue Internationale des Associations de Tourisme to hold their annual congress in London next year.

The chairman further pointed out that the A. A. and M. U. had expended to within 73 of the gross receipts in the interest of the members. The accounts of the association showed that the total income was $33,385.

At the close of the meeting a resolution was passed expressing the dissatisfaction of the Automobile Association at the policy of the road board.

SHOULD BE SURE

Motorist Ought to Know the Kind of Lubricating Oil He Purchases.

It is time that the motorist knew more about the lubricating oil he uses on his car, says an authority.

It is not enough to ask for a reliable brand by name. The name of the brand is of little use unless the motorist has some way of knowing that he gets the oil he asks for.

The better class of dealers are quite punctilious. They will either supply the oil asked for, or frankly say they do not carry it. But unfortunately, the automobile field is well supplied with dealers of another sort. They have a habit of supplying from one barrel as many different brands of oil as the motorist calls for.

In fact, there is a saying amongst this class of trades that the employee who can't supply from the same barrel any oil that is asked for, will quickly lose his job. Unfortunately, oil bought from the barrel is difficult to identify. So many oils are practically alike in color that the color itself furnishes no safe guide.

At present the motorist's best safeguard is to do just what he does in buying a trademarked grocery product—buy in the original package.

Practically every known trademarked brand of oil is sold in barrels, half-barrels and in five and one-gallon tins. The name is on the containers. In most cases the containers are sealed.

Unless the motorist buys in these original packages he has little assurance that he is getting the oil he asks for.

A proper lubricating oil is vital to the best operation of a motor car. But you can not feel safe in ordering any brand of oil unless you receive it in its original package with the name plainly shown.

SHOULD BE STUDIED.

Changing Gears Can Be Learned Best By Experience; Abuse Spoils Mechanism.

The art of gear changing should be given attention, and although this can be learned more by practice than by any hard-and-fast rules, yet there are a few rules the observance of which will serve to keep the gears in an efficient condition longer than would otherwise be the case. A writer says: "Changing from a low to a higher gear should never be done suddenly. The driver should wait until the car has reached the momentum which experience will tell him is the correct one, and the gear should be put in gradually and without any jerk or shock. Through the ignoring of this rule many gear boxes have been ruined in a very short time."

It is always advisable, before starting a run, to examine the quantity of oil on the car. If the makers advocate the use of a certain kind of oil it is better to use this, as experience has, no doubt, taught them that the best results from their engines are obtained when this oil is used. A spare tin should always be carried, and never on any account should a strange and unknown brand of oil be bought on the road, as this may cause "scoring," a loss of power, deposit of carbon on the pistons and cylinder heads, and misfiring.

OXYGEN IS USED.

Most Successful Way of Removing Carbon Deposits From Engines.

Of all the various methods of removing carbon deposits from engines, the most promising at the present time is the oxygen method, which consists of directing a stream of pure oxygen on the carbon in the cylinder, having first started the combustion of the carbon with a match. All that the carbon needed in the first place was enough oxygen to burn it, and it did not get it. That is why it stayed unburned in the cylinder. Where the oxygen method is being used at present, the charge for decarbonizing a four-cylinder engine is $5, and the cost is about 75 cents, plus 15 minutes of an ordinary workman's time. The cleaning is thorough, and the engine is unharmed.

PARADE OF TRUCKS.

The Milwaukee Automobile Club is making plans for a commercial vehicle demonstration and parade on Labor Day, which will be the first event of this kind ever arranged in Milwaukee. The main idea is to show the people of Milwaukee in concrete form the vast number of motor-propelled freight carriers used in the city and the wide application to businesses of all kinds.

Insist on Getting Premier Gasoline

IT isn't what you pay for Gasoline, but what you get out of it that determines its real cost.

Premier Gasoline gives more mileage per gallon than any other gasoline on the market. It atomizes readily, burns cleanly, and gives full power at all altitudes and temperatures.

You can get Premier always because The Imperial Oil Company is an absolutely dependable source of supply.

You can get Premier everywhere because the Imperial Oil Company has its stations everywhere.

Premier is a homogenous, pure, refined gasoline. It is produced as the result of scientific study by The Imperial Oil Company, the largest gasoline manufacturers in the Dominion.

Premier is always uniform. You can go from coast to coast with Premier without having to change your carburetor.

Be sure and get Premier Gasoline. Sold by dealers throughout the Dominion. Suitable storage tanks and pumps can also be purchased from The Imperial Oil Company.

WILL BE BOON TO MOTORISTS

An early start is to be made upon the $450,000 paving scheme of the Spanish municipal council, which will add 23 miles to the finest motoring road of the island. The Warren Construction company, which has the bulk of the contract, is transacting the preliminary towards assembling the necessary material. The Warwick company is supplying for material to be used in the two trunk roads awarded to it in order to utilize the valuable supply of rock in Mount Tolmie, and permission was granted at the meeting on Tuesday for this to be done.

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

The history of the currency in French times is curious and interesting. Sometimes "the coin of the realm" became so scarce that it seriously interfered with trade, and a variety of substitutes for it were used. In early days, according to a writer in the Canadian Antiquary, the wampum, or shell beads, of the Indians passed current, and "was accepted by them in exchange for furs." Later beaver and moose skins were used as money, though their bulk and frequent fluctuations in value rendered them extremely inconvenient for the purpose. In 1665 wheat, at a fixed price for a certain measure, was declared "legal tender." From time to time, to assuage the reiterated entreaties, a shipment of coin was sent out by the government, but sometimes the officials were in desperate straits, as in 1685, when the first issue of the famous "card" money was made, to meet an emergency. The experiment was frequently repeated, playing cards being used on account of the scarcity of ordinary paper; but in 1717 an attempt was made to abolish card money. On this date, September 6, however, the officials reported that none of the promised "new Louis d'or" had been received and practically the card currency remained in circulation to the close of the French regime.

To-day marks the anniversary of the birth of two distinguished Canadian statesmen, Sir George Etienne Cartier and Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt. The centenary of the former will be celebrated one year from to-day, and that of Galt four years hence. A Cartier centenary committee is now engaged in plans for properly honoring the memory of the great "father of confederation," and doubtless a similar tribute will be paid to Sir Alexander Galt.

The Dominion of Canada is a monument to Sir George Etienne Cartier, as "but for him"—to quote the language of Sir John A. Macdonald—"Confederation could not have carried." And Sir Charles Tupper has added this testimony: "Without Cartier there could have been no confederation, and therefore, Canada owes him a debt that can never be repaid." Cartier, father of a new nation, founder of constitutions, lawyer and soldier, was born in St. Antoine, Quebec, September 6, 1814, and the best part of his life was devoted to the service of his country. He died in 1873, worn out by his unremitting labors to bring about the era of confederation.

Sir Alexander Tilloch Galt was born September 6, 1817, in Chelsea, England. He came to Canada in his youth, entering the service of the British and American Land Company. From 1868 to 1872, and from 1874 to 1896, he was minister of finance. In the Confederation conference of 1864, the sturdy and independent statesman represented the Protestant interests of the Eastern

EDUCATIONALIST IS IN CITY FROM WALES

Sir Marchant Williams, Editor of the Nationalist, Investigating College Systems

Sir Marchant Williams, a prominent Welsh educationalist and a close personal friend, though political opponent, of the British chancellor of the exchequer, Lloyd George, arrived in Victoria last evening, and after looking over the city left again on this morning's boat for Vancouver, where he will entrain for Montreal.

Sir Marchant travelled to Vancouver with Sir John Courten, an alderman and former lord mayor of Cardiff, and with William Davis, a director of three of the largest newspapers in Wales and a fellow of the Institute of Journalists. Sir Marchant left his companions at the Terminal City whence they will leave for Victoria this afternoon, and he himself came to this city preparatory to returning hurriedly homeward and alone.

The well known Welshman, who is famous as one of the leading educationalists in Wales, confessed this morning that he was taking the opportunity of studying the college and university systems of Canada. For this reason he spent some time in Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. He is the oldest living member of the National Eisteddfod of Wales, which he first attended in 1861. The Eisteddfod is an annual tournament in music, art and literature in which thousands participate. He is also president of the Welsh language society, and he was the man who first advocated the teaching of both English and Welsh in Welsh schools.

But the real object of the visit of these three big Welshmen is to investigate the development of Canada and what its future possibilities may be. There are a lot of people, according to Sir Marchant Williams, who are anxious to come out from Wales, and they desire to be in a position to give reliable information to them. Sir Williams states that they are particularly interested with the general air of prosperity throughout Canada in spite of the ostensible hardness of the times.

In addition to his educational activities, Sir Marchant Williams is also distinguished as an author, and has for many years been editor of the Nationalist, a Welsh language newspaper. His credit to "Land of My Fathers," "Welsh Members of Parliament," "The Missing Member," "An English Grammar," "A Volume of Welsh Lyrics."

SOUTH PARK SCHOOL HOLDS COMMENCEMENT

Many Witness Presentation of Entrance Certificates, Cups and Medals

Quite a number of the children's parents and friends attended the commencement exercises at the South Park School yesterday afternoon, the proceedings, which commenced at 2 o'clock, being presided over by the principal, A. A. Campbell, and the following also being present in addition to the members of the school staff: Inspector Paul, Inspector May, Trustees Macintosh and Hayward, Rev. C. R. Little, Rev. T. J. Gladstone and Rev. Mr. Robson.

The greater interest centred round the presentation of medals and cups and entrance examination certificates. Inspector May presenting the 14 girls who passed the entrance examination with their certificates, and Inspector Paul the 23 boys who were successful in winning these. The South Park school, it was remarked during the presentation of the certificates, had come second in the province in the number of students who had passed the entrance examination last July, having 41 successful candidates, while the Lord Roberts' school in Vancouver came but one better with 43. Captain Macintosh presented Herbert Davey, the winner of the Redfern medal for highest marks in the school, with the award, and the seven medals awarded to the successful competitors in the Empire Day sports were presented by Trustee Hayward as follows: Two to Cecil Hay, 1 to Roy Copas, 1 to Valdemar Bendrodt, 1 to Howard Watson, and 1 to B. Scott. The football cup won by the senior team, boys under 18, was presented by Rev. T. W. Gladstone, and Mr. McLean, principal of the George Jay school, presented the junior boys, under 14, with the baseball cup which they had won.

All the presentations were accompanied by short addresses of a congratulatory character, which the children evidently appreciated, and interspersed between these were the several items of a short programme, which included three choruses sung by the school with great spirit under the direction of Mr. Pollard. Miss Laura Lewis gave a violin solo which was heartily applauded, and two of the graduating girls, Miss Iva Macphail and Miss Marjorie Legg gave piano-forte solos, the remainder of the programme consisting of recitations by Nellie Hamilton and Ruth Melville.

SELLING ON SUNDAYS

Argument on an Interesting Point of Law Will Be Heard Next Week.

As soon as the Supreme Court term opens one of the first matters to come up for disposition will be that of the application of the Lord's Day Act to Vancouver Island. It is at present anticipated that argument on the point can be heard by a Judge on Wednesday next.

The question comes before the court on a test case under the act taken in regard to Sunday selling by city merchants. The first case brought came before the police magistrate last spring, when Frank Higgins, for the defence, raised the novel point that the act did not apply on this island. His argument was that the act does not override any provincial legislation governing the observance of the day, and that as British Columbia has legislation dealing with the matter the act does not operate in the province. By an amendment made to the provincial act some years ago, at the instance of the members representing the island constituencies in the Legislature, Vancouver Island was excepted from its operation.

This view was supported by the magistrate and the prosecution was dismissed. The city appealed, but for technical reasons this appeal never was proceeded with. Another case was instituted during the summer against Dudley Laity for the sale of a cigar, and it is the appeal by the city against the dismissal of this that is coming on for hearing.

The same point was raised in a civil suit heard before Mr. Justice Morrison and decided by him adversely. He held that the federal law is in force on the island. When a move was made before him lately to bring on the argument in the city case he expressed the desire that the matter should come on before another Judge, he having stated his views already.

OPENED FALL TERM.

Public Assembly at Oak Bay School Yesterday—Prize Presented to Successful Candidate.

The fall term at Oak Bay school was formally opened yesterday afternoon at an assembly of the pupils and their parents in the school hall, Judge Lampman, as chairman of the school board, presiding. The principal's prize of $10 in gold to Miss Mabel Lott, who took the highest standing on the entrance examination in July, was presented, and Principal C. J. Haley briefly addressed the pupils. Judge Lampman drew attention to the fact that the first two graduates of the school to try the matriculation, Miss Grace Burrell and Claude Floyd, had been successful. The Rev. G. H. Andrews and Trustee H. Lott also spoke.

Meetings Next Week.

Monday—Victoria Lodge No. 1.

Tuesday—Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1.

Wednesday—Columbia Lodge No. 2.

Thursday—Dominion Lodge No. 4.

Friday—Canton Victoria No. 2.

Victoria Lodge No. 1.

The regular meeting of Victoria Lodge No. 1 will be held on Monday evening next. The initiatory degree will be conferred upon several candidates at this session.

Colfax Rebekah Lodge No. 1. About 50 members of Colfax lodge spent a very pleasant time on Monday last at Colwood as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Savory. The weather was ideal for an outing, and the members appreciated the kindness of their host and hostess for the pleasure afforded them on the occasion.

There will be the regular meeting of Colfax Rebekah lodge next Tuesday evening, when the degree of Rebekah will be conferred upon a number of candidates. Visiting members will receive a cordial welcome.

Vancouver Encampment No. 1. At the very interesting session of the encampment last Tuesday evening an important committee was appointed to bring in a report at the next meeting. As the matter is of vital importance to the members, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance on Tuesday evening, September 16. The second degree was conferred upon several members at the meeting last Tuesday.

Columbia Lodge No. 2. The second degree as exemplified by the degree team of this lodge last Wednesday evening brought forth very complimentary remarks by several of those present. The third degree will be exemplified next Wednesday evening.

Dominion Lodge No. 4. The degree team has had several good practices lately and the officers are pleased with the manner in which the team confers the degrees. Much interest is being taken in the work by all the members. The initiatory degree was exemplified on Thursday evening last.

Canton Victoria No. 2. There will be several matters of importance discussed at the next meeting of this popular branch of the order, which will be held on Friday next, September 12.

Gone to Seattle.

Bro. F. C. Dillabough, one of the most popular and energetic members of Dominion Lodge No. 4, has removed to Seattle where he will reside in future. Bro. Dillabough has held many important positions in his lodge, and has been a willing worker from the time he first entered the lodge room. His departure from the city will be a distinct loss to No. 4, and also to Vancouver Encampment and Canton Victoria No. 2.

General Relief Committee. This important committee held a meeting on Wednesday evening last and transacted much routine business.

FIRST THINGS

The first of the festivals in honor of Shakespeare at Stratford-on-Avon commenced on this date in 1759 and continued three days, with feasts, processions, illuminations, fireworks and masquerades, as well as dramatic productions. This "grand Shakespearean festival" was devised by David Garrick, the celebrated actor. The next important festival at the birthplace of the Bard of Avon was held in 1838. The movement for preserving the house in which Shakespeare was born had its beginning in 1847, when the house was sold at auction, and was bought by the United Committee of London and Stratford for $15,000. In 1861 a Shakespeare fund was started to purchase Shakespeare's garden and estate, and to erect thereon a public library and museum. In 1864 the tercentenary of Shakespeare's birth was made the occasion of another great festival at Stratford. The library was opened four years later, but was burned in 1879. The Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, which has been the scene of many recent festivals, was commenced in 1877, when the foundations were laid by Lord Leigh, and was opened in 1879.
